Village, Wal-Mart battle out who will pay for utilities

Wal-Mart hits village agenda mid-December

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

No decision has been made about the Great Lakes Principal's (GLP) proposal to put a Wal-Mart at the intersection of Deep Lake Road and Route 173.

Trustee Scott Pierce, chair of the planning, zoning and building committee asked that the topic be sent to committee for further review. At issue is who will pay for sewer and water to the site, and who will be responsible for recapture fees.

When asked by Pierce to explain the developer's position on sewer and water, Timothy Barrett, on behalf of GLP, said, "We would pay a tap on fee to Neumann Homes for water going to that development. There is some thought that the village would bring out the sewer.

Pierce noted that the city of Delavan, Wis. is not paying for the utilities going to the new Kohl's and Wal-Mart. "Why are we different from Delavan?" asked Pierce.

Barrett replied, "Delavan has a set of circumstances and that's the deal that they cut." He added, shifting gears, "We will pay 100 percent of the roadway improvements, between $1-2.5 million."

Barrett said the developer is looking to recapture the costs of the utilities that would not be used by the Wal-Mart development. The recapture fee would be 25 percent of the sales tax from the development

Village negotiates for billboard removal

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"Now that it's up, we have to negotiate to take it down," said Trustee Scott Pierce of a billboard on the south side of Route 173 near the Edgewater Condominiums.

Residents of the condominium development complained at a village board meeting that the sign blocks views from their windows. They also contended that the sign, 10 by 30 feet, exceeds the sign code maximum of 250 square feet.

Pierce said the board authorized village attorney Donald Anderson to negotiate with signs owner to have it taken down. The billboard is of an "available now" nature and advertises nothing but the spot itself.

When the residents made their presentation, Trustee Wayne Foresta noted that there is a moratorium on billboards, and that once a billboard is down, it should not go back up without village approval.

The building department granted a village permit based on 15-year-old Lake County permit.

A previous billboard was removed six years from the location and nothing has been there since. Bob Silhan, director of planning, zoning and building, said the previous billboard came down when Pedersen Marine made a complaint about the sign's content.

Pierce said the board hadn't reached a consensus on whether it would approve a different billboard if the space sells.

Lindenhurst board cautious on K-9s

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER

Lindenhurst's Board of Trustees decided not to decide whether to support a resolution asking Antioch Community High School District 117 to adopt a disciplinary policy that would allow for random drug searches by the Antioch Police Department's K-9 unit.

The resolution would not be binding on the school district, which functions autonomously regarding school policy.

Parents ask ed board for K-9 unit

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Parents, upset about the recent arrests of students from Antioch Community High School District 117, asked the board of education to allow for random searches with the Antioch Police Department's K-9 unit.

"Our Antioch Police Department offers an excellent deterrent to aid in the problem of drugs," said Lisa Vitucci. "I have seen it work firsthand at Antioch (Community Consolidated) School District 34, and it is effective."

Police Chief Charles Watkins said the superintendent would determine the "randomness" of the checks. "Other districts use probable cause based on the amount of drug suspensions in a given time period," he said. "The dog could be used, for instance, after there were two drug suspensions in a given month."

Additionally, Watkins said the dog would only sniff down lockers, the school's property, and that blanket checks of all students would not be done.

Village trustee, Bob Caulfield, said, "As a parent, you hear of a drug-free zone or zero tolerance. It appears we're letting the high school become a drug-safe zone."

School board president Phil Delany asked whether without regard to the dog, the school is doing what is necessary.

Watkins said, "Legally, a school is supposed to contact the police department if pot (cannabis) or its residue is found. The consequences would be the same (for an offending student as police are supposed to become involved regardless)."

Delany indicated that no decision would be made that evening (Nov. 7), as not all of the board of education members were there to review information.

Kathleen VanDien asked who is really being protected by the district's refusal to allow the K-9 unit into the school for random checks. "Eighteen months ago I lost

Felony enhanced DUI

Julio C. Cordova, 32, of 208 Hazelwood, Lindenhurst, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol and driving with a revoked driver's license on Nov. 11 at 11:40 p.m. on Route 173 west of Grimm Road.

Police observed his vehicle cross the centerline by about one foot, weave within its lane and drive several feet onto the paved shoulder.

Cordova reportedly told police he did not have a driver's license. He then said he was about to pull over and let his friend drive. When asked why, he replied, "Well, I'm pretty drunk."

Cordova failed all field sobriety tests requested of him. He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department where he was issued citations for two counts of improper lane usage and DUI.

He refused chemical testing and was issued additional citations for driving while revoked, operating an uninsured vehicle and failure to wear a seatbelt. Cordova was put through booking procedures.

Due to several convictions for DUI, the police contacted the state's attorney office. The charges of DUI and driving while revoked were enhanced to felony status.

Police secured Cordova in a cell to await transport to a bond hearing at the Lake County Courthouse.

DUI

Cheryl T. Rufenacht, 31, of 284 Main Street, Antioch, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on Nov. 10 at 3:02 a.m. at 830 Main Street.

Police observed her vehicle traveling with the passenger side tires two feet over the fog line, and through parallel parking spaces while on Toft. At the intersection of Toft and Orchard, she passed the stop sign and stopped in the middle of the road. She turned onto Orchard without signaling. Finally, she turned through a solid red light and failed to signal as she turned onto Main Street.

The odor of alcoholic beverage was detected on her breath when her driver's license and proof of insurance were requested. Rufenacht failed all field sobriety tests requested of her.

She was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department where she was issued a citation for DUI. Rufenacht refused chemical testing and was issued additional citations for driving while suspended, improper lane usage, disobeying a stop sign, two counts of failure to signal, disobeying a stoplight and operating an uninsured vehicle.

Rufenacht posted cash bond pending her Dec. 17 court date.

Susan G. Kenik, 45, of 410 Harden Street, Antioch, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on Nov. 9 at 6:25 p.m. on Route 173 at Deep Lake Road.

An officer was dispatched to the area for a possible DUI and observed the vehicle in question cross the centerline twice and cross the fog line once.

A moderate odor of alcohol was detected on Kenik's breath. She failed all field sobriety tests requested of her.

Kenik was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department where she was issued citations for improper lane usage and DUI. She agreed to chemical testing resulting in a .212 blood alcohol concentration. She was issued an additional citation for DUI over .o8.

Kenik posted $100 cash and her valid driver's license for bond.

Warrant arrest

Renee M. Tobakos, 41, of 26639 105th Street, Trevor, Wis., was arrested on warrant on Nov. 5 at 11:19 a.m. on North Avenue at Deep Lake Road.

Tobakos was stopped for having no right brake light and having no rear registration plate light. A check through LEADS/NCIC came back with information that she was wanted on $2,000 (10 percent applies) bond for failure to appear for a suspended driver's license.

She was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Department where she was put through booking procedures and issued citations for having a brake light out and having no rear registration plate light. Tobakos posted $200 cash bond pending her Dec. 3 . court date.

LAKE VILLA

DUI

Mat J. Weiss, 41, of 53340 N. Lake Ave., Antioch, was arrested by Lake Villa Police on Nov. 2, at 11:56 p.m., while driving eastbound on Route 132 near Route 83. Police, responding to a report of reckless driving, observed the driver cross the double yellow centerline. When he was stopped, he failed four of four field sobriety tests, and registered .158 on a PBT. Subsequently, when police attempted to administer an Intoxilizer test, Weiss failed to keep his mouth sealed around the mouthpiece of the machine. After repeated attempts, each yielding an incomplete result, police ceased testing. Weiss was charged with improper lane usage, DUI and driving without a license. He was released on a $3,000 I-bond, pending an appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402, on Jan. 3, at 9 a.m.

Theft from car

On Nov. 5, at 8:30 p.m., a woman at Palombi Middle School, at 131 McKinley Ave., reported to Lake Villa Police that gold coins were taken from her car, parked in the school lot. The two coins, circa 1900, were valued at $1,000. One was a souvenir from a state fair. She reported seeing two tall juveniles near her car. They reportedly got into a silver-colored van with a dent on the side. She was unable to see the registration plates. No arrests have been made.

Deer hit

A deer, running westbound across Route 83 at Park Avenue, was struck by a car driven by a 31-year-old Grayslake man, who said he was unable to avoid hitting the animal. The deer was killed.

LINDENHURST

DUI

Two drivers, apparently acquainted with each other, were simultaneously arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Nov. 8 at 12:55 a.m. on Grand Avenue. Both men were charged with DUI.

Police observed a white Isuzu minivan, driven by Gary J. Link, 35, of 37348 Parma, Lake Villa, heading westbound on Route 132 near Munn Road, following a green and gold Mazda, driven by Thomas A. Castino, 34, of 22057 W. Loon Rd., Antioch. Link was moving less than a car length behind the Mazda, according to police reports. He was traveling at 50 mph in a 45-mph zone. Both cars were drifting from side to side.

When police activated emergency warning lights, Link pulled into Shoshoni. Castino continued driving, finally pulling into the lot owned by dentist Neil Garrett, at 605 E. Grand.

Each driver failed four of four field sobriety tests. Link registered .138 BAC, and Castino registered .116 BAC. Castino told police he stopped to wait for his friend.

Link was charged with DUI, DUI over .08 BAC, improper lane usage, speeding, driving an uninsured motor vehicle and following too closely. Castino was charged with DUI, DUI over .08 BAC, improper lane usage and driving an uninsured motor vehicle. Both were released on $3,000 I-bonds, pending appearances in Waukegan courtroom C-402, on Nov. 26, at 9 a.m.

Joseph B. Ornelas, of 204 N. Crooked Lake Lane, Lindenhurst, was arrested by Lindenhurst Police on Nov. 9, at 1:53 a.m., while driving eastbound on Sand Lake Road east of Beck. Police observed the driver moving at 38 mph in a 45-mph zone. He crossed the double yellow centerline, putting three-quarters of his car in the oncoming lane, according to police. Police noticed he had tinted front passenger and driver's side windows, as well as a pink-tinted license plate cover, and was missing a front license plate. He failed four of four field sobriety tests, and a breath test yielded a result of .172 BAC. He was charged with improper lane usage, no front plate, tinted windows, tinted license plate cover, DUI and DUI over .08 BAC. He was released on a $3,000 I-bond, pending an appearance in Waukegan courtroom C-402, on Nov. 26, at 9 a.m.

Don't flu around

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Flu is nothing to fool around with. According to the Center for Health Statistics, 150 million cases of respiratory illnesses, including colds and flu, are reported each year in the United States.

It's reported that the most effective way to prevent the spread of illness is also the simplest: hand washing. Skin-to-skin contact is the most common way of spreading germs.

Besides hand washing, getting an annual flu shot reduces the risk of catching the disease by 70-90 percent according to the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices.

Flu shots will be available at several locations in Antioch throughout the month. Shots will be given at the Piggly Wiggly, located on Orchard Street, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 16.

Additionally, shots will be available at the Antioch Senior Center on Holbek Drive from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 18 and at the Osco Drug on Route 59 on Thursday, Nov. 21 from 4-8 p.m.

Flu is differentiated from a common cold in that it involves lower respiratory problems in addition to upper respiratory sniffling and sneezing. Fevers, fatigue and sore throats often accompany the flu.

Those most susceptible are the young, the old and those with compromised immune systems. The Center for Disease Control and Prevention reports that the flu kills 20,000 people every year.

The Center for Disease Control and Prevention also warns that dried out sinuses are more vulnerable to cold viruses that love low humidity. A remedy for dry conditions inside the home includes using humidifiers or even placing open bowls of water over the radiator.

Screening can reduce risk of stroke

Residents living in and around Antioch can be screened to reduce the risk of having a stroke.

Life Line Screening will be at the St. Peter Catholic Church, Frawley Hall, on Wednesday, Nov. 20. Appointments begin at 9 a.m.

A stroke, also known as a "brain attack," is ranked the third leading killer in the world, and the second among women.

Screenings are fast and painless, involving the use of ultrasound technology. They scan for potential health problems related to blocked arteries that can lead to stroke, aortic aneurysms that can lead to a ruptured aorta and hardening of the arteries in the legs that is a strong predictor of heart disease.

Also offered, for men and women, is a bone density screening to assess for risk of osteoporosis.

Each screening requires 10 minutes or less and costs $40. A complete vascular screening includes the carotid/stroke artery screening, abdominal aortic aneurysm and ankle brachial index screenings for $99. Add osteoporosis screening for $125.

Pre-registration is required. For more information and to schedule an appointment, call 800-643-6188. St. Peter Church is located at 557 Lake Street, by the Jewel store.

Pair walks for a purpose: backs for stroke-awareness event

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Two area walkers, Kathy Murray of Ingleside and Karen Powell, of Antioch, are preparing for a walk-a-thon to raise awareness about strokes.

The two were at Independence Grove Forest Preserve near Libertyville, readying for a fund-raising marathon in Jamaica. The weekend in Jamaica will not be a vacation, though, as the two will be part of a 100-member Chicago team participating in the Reggae Marathon in Negril, Jamaica. The event is held in support of America Stroke Association (ASA), part of the American Heart Association (AHA).

"I am helping out my friend, Murray, who was in a motorcycle accident. Her symptoms were very similar to someone who had had a stroke. She was paralyzed on one side, and had to re-learn a lot of skills such as speaking, swallowing and talking. This will help her both mentally and physically," Powell, of Antioch, said.

The weekend in Jamaica will feature a pasta dinner Dec. 6 followed by a Dec. 7 marathon. Murray will be competing in the walkers' half-marathon., 13.1 miles.

Raising awareness about the importance of strokes is one of the pair's biggest goals.

"People just pass it off as a problem for older people. But it can happen at any age," Murray said.

The participants are working with professional trainers in the preparation of the event, dubbed Train to End Stroke. The Chicago team, part of an Illinois team from 26 cities, hopes to raise $300,000.

Murray works as a travel agent, a career that she has enjoyed for the last six years. She said her North Barrington office has been good in supporting her efforts in Train to End Stroke. Her three children, ages 18, 17 and 13 have also been supportive. Her walks have taken her to Chain O' Lakes State Park, Grant Forest Preserve and Deer Grove Preserve in Palatine.

"I workout with Alpine Runners in Lake Zurich and they have been very helpful," Murray said.

Murray's husband Joe died in the motorcycle accident on Route 134 that left her with brain damage and many stroke-like symptoms. "I had to re learn how to walk, talk, swallow. I go to rehab at Waterford, Wis. at Lakeview Center. I went there after Lutheran General Hospital after a month and a half in the hospital," Murray said.

"The participants have been and continue to raise much needed funds for stroke research and education, and are having fun getting in shape to walk or run a full or half marathon or Jamaica," said Kathy Abbott, Train to End Stroke director. "We are thrilled with the number of people who are participating and those who supported our participants with contributions."

"My commitment to this marathon is a donation to the ASA in the amount of $4,500. I am asking for your help and support," Powell said in a request letter. "The more I learn about stroke and its debilitating effects, the more I feel the need to thank God every day that everyone in my family is healthy. Stroke is something that can be treated if you get help as soon as you think that it might be a stroke."

Stroke is the third leading cause of death in the United States, and a leading cause of severe, long-term disability. About 600,000 Americans suffer a new or recurrent stroke each year. On average, someone in this country suffers a stroke every 53 seconds, and every 3.3 minutes someone dies of a stroke.

The ASA was created in Nov., 1998. Its goal is to raise awareness of stroke and strengthen the AHA's efforts to reduce disability and death from stroke.

Train to End Stroke is the association's bi-annual marathon and fund-raising program. The next event is scheduled for June, 2003. For more information, call 312-346-4675 or visit the AHA's web site at www.StrokeAssociation.org.

Supporting library foundation benefits community

OUR TOWN

Julie Murphy

Antioch is a great town and as it is "our town," it is beneficial to support the causes that ultimately help the whole community. With that in mind, the newly created Antioch Public Library Foundation is a cause worthy of consideration.

Ann Kakacek, president of the board of trustees for the library district, said, "The library board's goal is to create a library that fulfills Antioch's need for information and learning, while also building a sense of history and community."

The Antioch Public Library Foundation was created to establish and fund programs that the library cannot currently afford within its operating budget. With the support of the community, it intends to be the primary source for both existing and new programs and services.

"Your donation will make a difference in our community," said Kakacek. "You can commemorate yourself or members of your family by donating to the library foundation through a giving tree leaf or through a brick that will pave the way to learning."

The cost of a small brick is $50, $100 for a large brick. Paving bricks will be engraved with names.

Donors of $250 or more will be commemorated with a leaf engraved with that is to be constructed in the main entrance of the library. A bronze leaf is $250, a silver leaf $500 and a gold leaf is $1,000.

Gifts to the Antioch Public Library Foundation, a 501-(c) (3) community foundation, are tax deductible to the extent provided by the Internal Revenue Service.

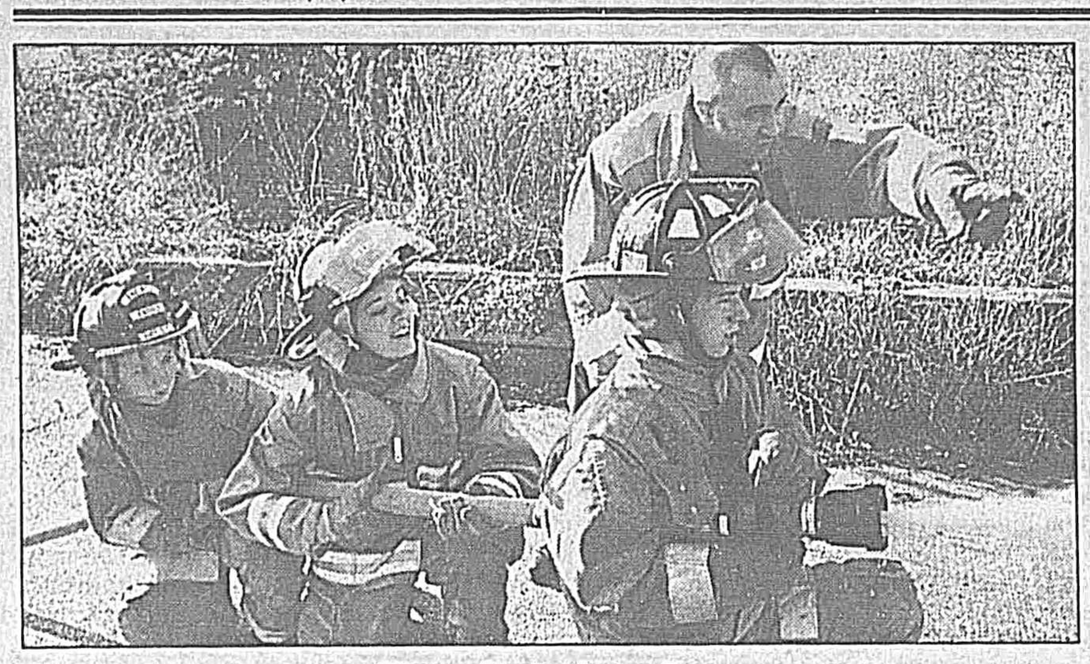

Community theater is also worth supporting. The best way to do this is to go see a play.

PM&L Theatre's opening performance of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" takes place at its temporary home at the VFW Hall on North Avenue on Friday, Nov. 15. It will run every weekend through Dec. 1.

Saturday and Sunday performances are held at 8 p.m. Sunday matinee performances are at 2:30 p.m.

Call 847-395-3055 for reservations. Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for students and seniors.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Julie Murphy at 847-223-8161, ext. 600 or e-mail, moorfie@ix.netcom.com

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Remember commerce

After reading the article regarding Neumann homes a lot of opinions rushed to my head. I'm only 21, however, I've lived in Antioch for about 17 years now. I've seen things grow in leaps and bounds. I've observed bulldozers thwart the land on which deer used to roam, only to built dwellings for human beings.

So there's no stopping residential growth, that much is obvious, but what's going to happen when it takes 45 minutes to get from Deep Lake Road to Blockbuster or 25 minutes to get from Lake Street to 173? People don't seem to flinch for approving residential super-developments and how will Antioch's infrastructure handle such growth. So many people are against Wal-Mart and big box stores, but let's face it; if Antioch doesn't get those outlets for obtaining goods, people will overwhelm the small downtown district, then when traffic becomes annoying they'll flee to Round Lake, Gurnee, and Vernon Hills.

As a community, if we're going to be building these homes we need to build commerce to handle the mounds of people, without overwhelming the small shops. I also think roads are in serious need of widening and improving.

As a young adult, deciding where I might want to reside, the convenience of getting around and obtaining simple products will be key in my decision for the future.

Football

The Saturday Bantams finished the season with a respectable 7-2 mark after losing a hard-fought 18-13 battle with the Lake Zurich Flames. Ryan Goscinski dashed into the end zone on a from 43 yards out on a reverse play reverse to open the scoring for the Vikings. Josh Anttila then completed a pass to Goscinski to get into scoring position. Then, off of a solid block from Joey Moser, Anttila rumbled in. Trailing 18-13, Antioch was driving for a potential game-winning score after Logan Edwards catch put the Vikings close to the Flames 30-yard line. But Antioch could get no closer as an interception ended its hopes, and season.

The Lake Villa Timberwolves Lightweight team concluded their season with a very respectable 8-2. The Wolves fell to North Chicago for the second time this season in the title game of the playoffs last weekend. It marked the first time ever the Lightweights had earned a trip to the championship game.

Lake Villa spotted North Chicago a 20-0 halftime lead only to come up a little short on the scoreboard after two second-half touchdowns.

The first came by way of a 30-yard scoring pass from quarterback T.J. Siwy to James Menheer. Ted Bariamis then barreled in around end from 25 yards out. But in the end, it was the Flames blitzing defense and quickness that proved to be the difference.

Defensive standouts this year included Billy Battistone, James Menheer, Ted Bariamis, Caleb Garascia, Eric Halek, Juan Pickett, Danny Riedel, Nick Waido and Alex Engel.

The awesome offensive line that opened holes for the running game included the likes of Battistone, Chris Kaishian, Brad Meltzer, Tony Upchurch, Kevin Grant, Jonathan Newton and Michael Soto. The outstanding defensive ends included Michael Knapmiller, Menheer and Fred Bierer.

Doing an excellent job at the flanker position included Waido and Jimmy Hansen III. Putting tons of points on the board fell primarily into the hands of quarterback T.J. Siwy, and running back Riedel, Bariamis, Engel and Andrew Highland.

Other outstanding performers on the Wolves Lightweight team included Jake Jarrell, Dominic Funari, Scott Berman, Daniel Sievert, Nick Phillips and Matt Kremser.

There were so many standout performances on the season. Bariamis dashed for over 1,000 yards and 16 scores while Highland also dashed for the century mark and scored 12 touchdowns. Riedel added to a potent backfield. He was close to a 1,000 yards while punching in six touchdowns on the year.

Siwy orchestrated the offense to perfection most of the season. He tossed for over 1,000 yards and 14 scoring strikes. Siwy showed his versatility in scoring four touchdowns via the ground.

The Wolves' Lightweights were coached by Denis Sandecki. He was assisted offensive coordinator Ted Siwy, defensive coordinator Paul Gange, and assistant coaches Brett Kaishian, Todd Knapmiller and Neil Highland.

A big thanks goes out to all who supported the Wolves during this memorable season. A special thanks goes out to the JV cheerleaders, who are also to be congratulated on their second-place finish at the Schaumburg competition.

Soccer

The Lindenhurst Predators U-11 boy's soccer team lost its final game of the fall season 3-0 to Trevian in Winnetka. The Predators allowed three goals in the first half but came out re-energized with a strong defense in holding Trevian scoreless in the second half. Saves were made by keepers Andre Sippy (five) and Danny Hourihan (four).

"It has been my pleasure and honor to have been allowed to work with them (the Predators) this fall to help them grow as soccer players and as individuals," said Predator coach Frank Marshall upon conclusion of the fall season.

Steve McCollum and Brian Westrate also serve as coaches for the Predators.

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

Patrick Witwicki and Rafael Dos Santos
Boy's soccer

Patrick earned his second and third shutout of the season in consecutive 1-0 victories over Libertyville and Carmel in the regional tournament. While the defensive shutout is credited to the entire team, Patrick commanded the defense as goalkeeper. He shut down two very potent offenses. Neither Libertyville or Carmel had lost a game or been shutout during the entire month of October. Patrick's strong play in goal is a large reason why the varsity team won its first regional championship since 1992.

As for Rafael, he scored the goals in the two regional tournament victories over Libertyville and Carmel, giving him four on the year. The quantity of his goals is not significant, however the quality and timeliness of the goals was huge. The first goal of the week was the only goal in the varsity's first-ever win against Libertyville. The goal against the Corsairs was the only score and thus the game winner over Carmel to secure the regional title for the Sequoits.

Sybaris Suites provide that romantic getaway all couples need from time to time

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Being in business means taking chances from time to time. From running a Kool-Aid stand when he was eight-years-old to becoming the founder and Chief Executive Officer for 14 separate companies, Lake Zurich businessman Ken Knudson has certainly taken his share of them.

But it was in 1974 that Knudson, a 29-year-old, took perhaps his biggest chance.

There were several factors involved but all leaned towards one common goal—Knudson, now 57, wanted to create a place where committed couples could retreat and get away from it all without leaving their immediate area.

"Back then (in the '60s and '70s), everyone pretty much got married right out of college," said Knudson. "I saw an obvious need for it (a place for couples to escape to)."

Knudson's wife played a huge role in her husband's new venture.

"My wife (Charlene) was a second generation furniture builder and involved in unique interiors," says Knudson. "She was in Woodfield Mall one day and saw a romantic bedroom set. We both fell in love with it and had it installed in our home."

Since 1974, Sybaris Luxury Suites have been a getaway haven for romance for married, or committed couples. The creators of Sybaris are Ken (right) and Charlene Knudson. They are joined by their son Scott.—Photo courtesy of Sybaris

Soon after, one of his wife's girlfriends came over to the house for a visit. She saw her friends' new addition and had wished she had a similar set-up, one where she and her husband could 'hide' from the in-laws and kids without leaving the comforts of their home.

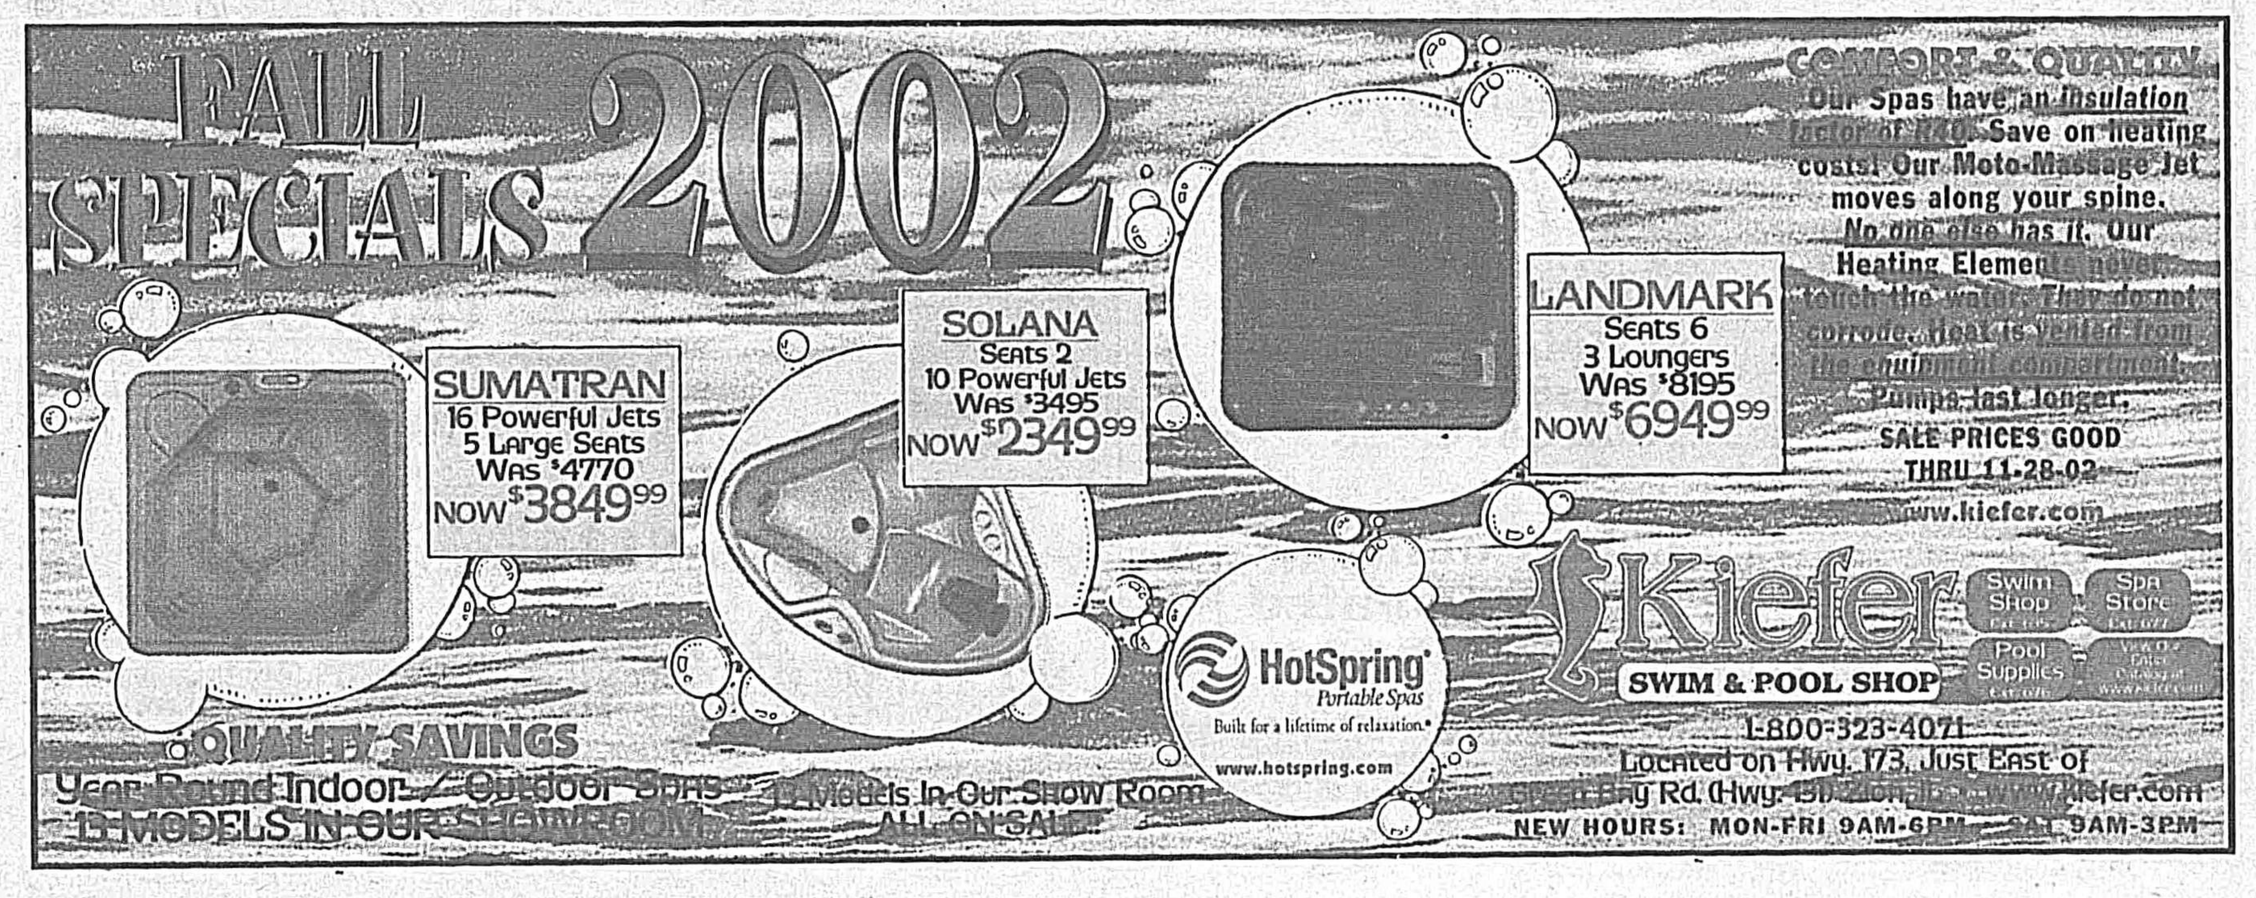

This further motivated Knudson and his new idea. The result—the berth of the Sybaris Clubs. Knudson adopted the name Sybaris from the ancient Grecian city Sybaris, located in southern Italy. The people of Sybaris were known not only for their wealth, but more for their devotion to luxury and sensuous pleasure. Sybaris Clubs, which now have five locations throughout the Midwest, has seen gross revenues exceed more than 9 million dollars now in almost 30 years of operation.

The first Sybaris doors opened in Downers Grove in 1974.

Picture it—no phones, no windows, elegant music playing, island settings—just a few of the numerous trademark features offered in the first Sybaris.

"Basically, it was a magical place where couples could shed the stress of daily life and become re-acquainted with love," said Knudson. "It wasn't too profitable in the beginning. It took a little while for the idea to catch on. But in 1977, a guy from the

Romanian goulash spices up the dinner table

COOKING by the BOOK

Tom Witom

Goulash with a kick! That's one of the fine recipes from Galia Sperber's "The Art of Romanian Cooking" (Pelican Publishing, 2002).

Sperber provides recipes from her culturally diverse homeland for appetizers such as papanasi prajiti (savory fried cheese patties) and desserts such as Chocolate and Cream Mazurka.

The goulash, which reflects a Hungarian influence, has a slight undertone of heat, an ideal complement to a chilly fall day. For those inclined to make their own egg noodles, Sperber also includes a recipe.

Muresh-style Goulash

2 large onions
3 large carrots
2 large red bell peppers
4 Tbl. chopped celery leaves
2 tsp. paprika
2 Tbl. tomato paste
3 cups beef stock
1 lb. veal stew meat
1 tsp. ground cumin
3 tsp. salt
5 large potatoes (cubed)
3 cloves garlic (crushed)
1 tsp. pepper
1/2 chili pepper (chopped)
2 Tbl. chopped parsley
1/2 package flat egg noodles

Slice the onions, carrots and peppers and place in a large pot. Add the celery leaves, paprika, tomato paste and stock. Bring to the boil, then add the cubed meat, cumin and 2 tsp. salt and simmer for 2 hours on medium-low heat. Next, add the cubed potatoes and bring to the boil again.

Then add the noodles to the goulash when it begins to boil. Finally add the mushrooms, garlic, pepper, chili and half the parsley and simmer gently, on medium-low heat, 30 minutes more. Serve hot, sprinkled with the remaining parsley.

ALONE

Chicago Tribune went to check out Downers Grove. He loved it. As a result, he wrote a news story on Sybaris and that's when things really took off. We were on radio talk shows that were picked up all over the world. The response to it became overwhelming."

So overwhelming that Knudson did what any good businessman would. In 1981, he opened a second location in Northbrook.

"At that point, I liquidated all of my small businesses," said Knudson. "Sybaris became my brain child. I burnt my bridges and became completely committed to it."

The Northbrook location is set on 5.5 acres of land and includes 38 cottages. It is currently the largest in the chain.

With the growth in popularity came the obvious upgrades with the goal of continually pleasing the guests.

Upgrades in the coming years included steam rooms, fireplaces, waterfalls and swimming pools. The year 1987 marked the unveiling of the 'Chalet' Suite, a 3-story mini-mansion equipped with, in addition to the aforementioned features, a bedroom overlooking your own personal swimming pool.

In 1992, the idea spread into Wisconsin to the suburb of Mequon, located about 20 miles north of Milwaukee proper. That's where Knudson purchased the land that used to house a 150-year-old farmhouse and 35-year-old motel.

The original motel rooms were converted into Victorian Whirlpool Suites. The Sybaris in Mequon presently has four quad-room buildings and two Chalets making up a total of over 30 suites.

Staying at the Sybaris location in Northbrook certainly had its impact on Judy Kiefer. Formerly a front office supervisor for the Hilton Hotel, Kiefer became the general manager of the Mequon Sybaris in September of this year.

"I happened to be looking for a new job and after staying in the (Northbrook) Sybaris, it intrigued me," said Kiefer, who oversees a staff of approximately 25 in Mequon. "There are so many unique features. The main thing I think though is the privacy issue and the luxury features Sybaris has to offer."

The Mequon location also features Brew City Bar-B-Q restaurant, which rented the property from Knudson and Sybaris. A gazebo fireplace is also available for guests' enjoyment.

In 1993, Sybaris opened it fourth location in downstate Frankfort. The latest Sybaris suite to hit the scene was the opening of one in Indianapolis in 1998.

Overall, the five locations consist of over 115 total suites. According to Knudson, more than 50,000 couples visit any one of the locations during the year.

All of the Sybaris Suites feature various mementos and apparel, from terry cloth bathrobes, polo style shirts, romantic picnic baskets and colored roses.

Speaking of roses, upon your request and for a little extra cost, Roy Houff Professional Florists Choice for Quality based out of Chicago will display rose petals in your suite, most times, on the bed. Makes for quite a surprise when you blindfold your significant other and walk them into the room.

As far as costs for staying at any one of the Sybaris Clubs, it varies, depending on what kind of package you want. Generally, couples can come for an afternoon 'getaway' or they can stay for the evening. Prices vary based on the duration of your stay and of course, the level of suite with the spectrum ranging from $65 to $520.

Annual memberships are also available for $30 a year, while VIP memberships run for $110. Perks that accompany a membership include various discounts throughout the year as well as the option of being able to stay at any one of the Sybaris locations.

Knudson said he plans on opening more Sybaris locations in the future.

But for now, "We just want to be congruent and continue perfecting the existing features at all of the locations," he said. "We are entertaining offers from people in other states."

Sybaris doors are open to people 21- and-older, unless they are married and have valid identification.

For more information on Sybaris, check out the web site at www.sybaris.com.

Looking for that romantic getaway at a very affordable cost and very little travel, it's worth looking into.

You have nothing to fear from changes on the work front. A colleague will propose certain changes and you'll go along, if you're wise. Who knows? The changes may even make life easier for you.

AQUARIUS – Jan 21/Feb 18
You must make time for yourself, Aquarius, despite all the chores and duties you're expected to fulfill. New places and new faces are lucky for you this week.

You seem to believe that you have hidden enemies and that you must continually look over your shoulder. Slow down, try some nice thoughts for a change.

SPECIAL EVENT

Master jugglers bring their act to CLC Nov. 17

The Flying Karamazov Brothers, masters of juggling and theatrics, will bring their hilarious and creative show to the College of Lake County on Nov. 17. Their show, titled "Catch!," will begin at 7 p.m. in the Mainstage Theatre of the Performing Arts Building on the Grayslake Campus. The performance will range from traditional juggling of items such as torches, sickles, hatchets and meat cleavers to bizarre and unexpected tricks. Audience participation is a key component of the show, and the Brothers challenge their fans to bring objects of whimsy that they think are unjugglable. Their finale will consist of attempting the impossible trick of juggling nine objects of danger. The Flying Karamazov Brothers got their start on the streets of San Francisco 29 years ago. Since then they have perfected their unique brand of performance, bringing it to audiences through stage, silver screen and Broadway productions and television appearances. The Brothers have shared the stage with such celebrities as Frank Sinatra, The Who, Robin Williams, Joan Rivers, The Blues Brothers and Kenny Rogers. They also have appeared on episodes of "Seinfeld," "Ellen" and "Mr. Roger's Neighborhood." Additionally, they have performed on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno," NBC's "Today Show" and CBS "This Morning." Tickets are $33 for the general public; $30 seniors 65 and over, CLC students, staff and graduates and $15 for children under 12.

The Masthouse presents Jez Lowe & The Bad Pennies, who will be performing songs from Northumbria on Nov. 16 at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Church, 221 Dean St. in Woodstock.

Durham-born singer/songwriter Jez Lowe is hailed as one of Britain's #1 folk musicians, and one of the busiest. He has toured all over Europe, Australia, Canada and the United States. His songs of Northern England—with a rich history of mining, gala days & British folkways — are the most widely sung in Britain and gaining American popularity. The "Boston Globe" describes him as "brilliant, witty & cultishly popular." In December of 2000, he performed an original song before Queen Elizabeth II, and performed again for her in May of 2002 as part of the Royal Golden Jubilee.

check it out!

In 1990, Jez began working with The Bad Pennies, a quartet of singers & musicians who have become one of England's top folk bands, combining what has been called "acoustic simplicity with electric vitality."

Theirs is an exciting musical presentation, with a Celtic flavor that harks back to its roots. Jez Lowe & The Bad Pennies bring Northeast England to our doorstep.

Admission is $12.50. For reservations and information, call Judy Matzen at 815-338-7909 or visit the web site at www.woodstockfolkmusic.com.

A premiere for the North Shore area

Davi Weiss (as Aida), Tony Fiorentino (as Nick), and Susan Veronika Adler (as Emma) in "Over the River and Through the Woods" by Joe DiPietro, performing at the Attic Playhouse in Highland Park, Nov. 15-Dec. 22.

Attic Playhouse is putting on the production of "Over the River and Through the Woods" from Nov. 15 – Dec. 22. Performances are Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m. (except no Sunday matinee on Nov. 17).

"Over the River and Through the Woods" received its Off-Broadway premiere at the John Houseman Theater in New York in 1998, where it ran for over two years, and is currently playing around the world. Attic Playhouse is happy to be producing the play's "North Shore" premiere after eagerly waiting over 3 years to garner the rights to perform this new hit comedy. The story revolves around Nick, a single Italian-American guy from New Jersey, as he routinely visits his grandparents at their traditional Sunday dinner. This one particular Sunday, Nick breaks the news that he's moving out West in pursuit of his dream job, which creates quite a stir with his exasperating, but lovable grandparents. Frank, Aida, Nunzio and Emma do their level best to convince Nick not to move away from them, including inviting the lovely—and single—Caitlin O'Hare to dinner as bait. Their schemes continue in this charming comedy.

Tickets are $15 for advanced purchase and $16 at the door. Special discounts are given to senior citizens (65 plus), students with ID, military personnel and groups. Dinner packages for $30 are available with "Two Guys From Italy Restaurant," located in the same building.

Attic Playhouse is located at 410 Sheridan Rd. in Highwood. For tickets or further information, call 847-433-2660.

Look skyward

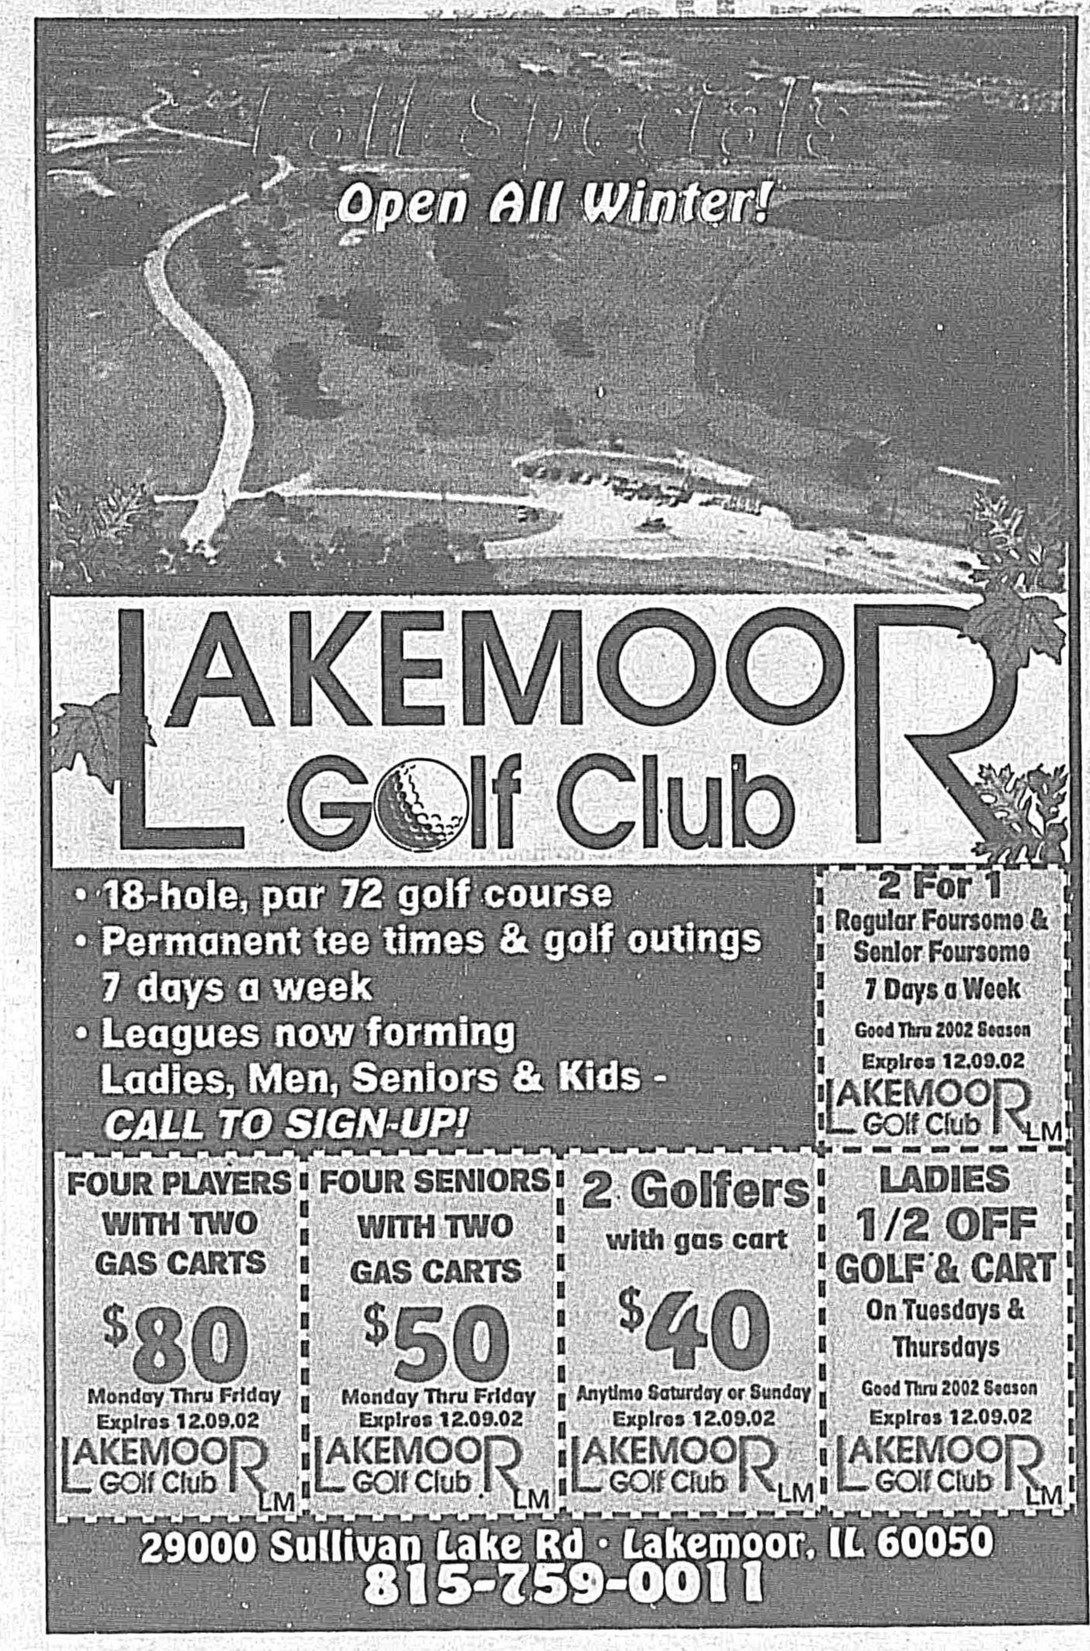

Astronomers predict the potential of a spectacular event

One of the most exciting astronomical events viewed with the naked eye is the sighting of a "shooting star." What are commonly called shooting stars are not stars at all, but rather meteors—tiny particles entering the Earth's atmosphere from space and vaporizing in a burst of light. Each November when Earth passes through the stream of debris from Comet Tempel-Tuttle, the Leonid Meteor Shower occurs. This year, Chicago area residents may have the opportunity to experience a spectacular shower that may match the breathtaking storm that many viewers around the world enjoyed in 2001.

The Leonids are so-named because their path through the sky can be traced back to a point in the direction of the constellation Leo the Lion. Approximately every 33 years the Leonid meteor shower becomes a breathtaking meteor storm—capable of illuminating the night sky with thousands of meteors per hour. Astronomers predict that the height of the storm over North America this year could possible generate forty meteors every minute—over 2,400 per hour.

Astronomers generally advise sky watchers wanting to view meteor showers to seek out a dark sky site as far away from the city lights as possible in order to maximize their viewing experience. This year's Leonids occur when the nearly full moon will light up the sky, causing it to be fairly bright everywhere. The peak period in Chicago should occur at approximately 4:30 a.m. on November 19, when the moon will be low in the west.

FRIDA

Rating
R for sexuality, nudity and language

Director
Julie Taymor

Starring
Salma Hayek, Alfred Molina
Geoffrey Rush, Ashley Judd
Antonio Banderas
Edward Norton
Saffron Burrows

This eloquent adaptation of the real life story of Frida Kahlo (Salma Hayek) opens as some of the devastating events that will shape the rest of her life begin to occur. A spirited teen, the daughter of a well-to-do family in Mexico City, Frida pushes the limits. Whether having clandestine sex with her boyfriend while the house is full of relatives and friends, or showing up for a family portrait with hair slicked back and dressed to the nines in the latest attire for a young man, Frida demands her family's attention.

A horrific trolley accident punctures Frida's pelvis and her young body is encased in a body cast. During her long recuperative period she begins to paint; first the plaster cast itself and then self-portraits of her bound body. Frida considers becoming an artist and asks Diego Rivera (Alfred Molina), Mexico's famous muralist, to provide his opinion.

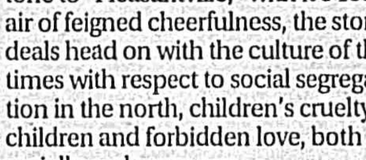

Diego and Frida become romantically involved and eventually are married; though they share adjacent houses (not bedrooms) bridged by a colorful walkway. It's a rocky relationship due in part to his left wing politics and skirt chasing. Eventually Frida steps out and has affairs with both men and women.

The film has several wonderfully sensual moments. Passion leaps off the screen in vivid colors, life imitates art and vice versa, politics follow polemics, and then there's the pure sexuality of it all. There is a tango and a kiss between Hayek and Ashley Judd; a nude scene of Hayek, beautiful even when the body cast is removed, revealing a torso brushed with chalk residue and a person in obvious pain. No opportunity for sensuality is overlooked.

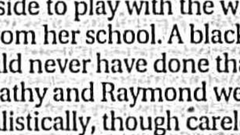

Director Julie Taymor (director of "The Lion King" on Broadway) uses her innovative creativity to direct this film, which is artistically stunning. Molina's performance is so strong that he tends to overshadow Frida's story. Expect some Oscar nominations for this film, which we believe, would be well deserved.

There are many gems in the film. The fantastic portrayal of Frida and Diego as they take the New York City art scene alone is worth the price of admission. Excellent acting glows against a backdrop of the artwork, which often morphs into reality.

As Frida's health slips to the point of realizing that she has little time left, she expresses the thought, "I hope the exit is joyful and I hope never to return." Many of us need the passing of time to understand the situation we are in at the moment, especially if it's one of the best or worse times in our life. Frida was able to step outside of herself and see both the present and the future and to paint it, sometimes with painful beauty. Although she did not live a long life, few would argue that Frida Kahlo did not get more out of life than most.

Cathy and Frank Whitaker (Julianne Moore and Dennis Quaid) are the couple who has everything. She's a stay-at-home mom and an avid community volunteer. He's a successful businessman, plagued with the usual case of glad hand, one-upsmanship. Similar in look and tone to "Pleasantville," with it's 1950s air of feigned cheerfulness, the story deals head on with the culture of the times with respect to social segregation in the north, children's cruelty to children and forbidden love, both racially and same sex.

We sense early on that the broad smiles in the Whitaker family are hiding something insidious. While this is running its course to a confrontation, Cathy meets Raymond (Dennis Haysbert), her new gardener, who happens to be black. When she asks about his father, she is shocked to learn that he has recently died and immediately puts a hand on Raymond's shoulder in sympathy, which is witnessed by the not-so-liberal editor of the local community paper. Cathy and Raymond develop a true relationship based not on race and class but on common interests and values.

While we suspect that Frank has a love life outside of his marriage that he conducts during the times he is out of town on business or "working late," when the truth becomes known to Cathy, it results in a sea of change in the marital relationship.

Although this is 1950s Hartford, Connecticut and not Jackson, Mississippi, there is not much difference with social relationships of adults when race is involved.

Still George says: "I thought the film was unrealistic regarding a black man taking a white women out to a local 'blacks only' restaurant; even though it might put his landscaping business at risk. He did not go out with Cathy to have a sexual affair, so why take the risk to just make a social point of letting her know what it feels like to be the minority in a gathering of people?

"I feel she was reckless regarding men, race and class."

Pam adds: "A bigger mistake was made at the art gallery, when Raymond encouraged his daughter go outside to play with the white boys from her school. A black mother would never have done that.

"Cathy and Raymond were acting realistically, though carelessly and perhaps from the loss of the marriages they thought they had."

George: "Looking from the outside in, we see two potential soul mates, who might get past class issues, but maybe not race."

Pam: "Certainly not in those times, in that town."

For those who think that having a discourse on race has value, but without the intensity of a "Mississippi Burning," this is a good film to encourage such discussion, while still having fun at the movies.

CLC Theatre production opens Nov. 15

Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" will be the fall production presented by the College of Lake County's theatre department. The play will open at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 15 and will continue Nov. 16, 21, 22-23 in the Studio Theatre of the Performing Arts Building.

The CLC production is directed by Eibhlin Glennon, instructor of English and theatre. Set a few years after World War 11, "All My Sons" examines the consequences of a decision made during the war to ship defective parts for airplane engines to the front rather than scrapping them. Miller's play explores the military industrial complex in a small and personal way as guilt and love, greed and patriotism clash.

Tickets are $8 for the general public and $6 for CLC students, staff and graduates who have paid their current alumni association dues. Call 847-543-2300 for tickets.

Opening Today

Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets: More sinister than the first film, with a lot more action and better performances by the youngsters. With the first film grossing almost $1 billion, most people know the underlying story. Who are we to say that it will be anything but great?

Standing in the Shadows of Motown ★★★★★: A documentary of the Funk Brothers (who?). You know them as the band in the background of Motown's famous singers. They have been heard on more #1 records than Elvis, the Beatles, the Beach Boys and the Rolling Stones combined. The sound in the movie is bigger than life. Musical numbers by Gerald Levert, Chaka Khan, Meshell Ndegeocell, Joan Osborne, Ben Harper and other singers, demonstrate how great the band was. You remember the original songs and to hear them covered by today's artists, and sound as good as the masterpiece, says it all about just how fantastic The Funk Brothers were and still are. Though not by any means investigative in nature, the back-story is interesting.

Still Playing

Bowling for Columbine ★★★★1/2: Michael Moore of "Roger & Me" fame may have made the documentary that could win an Oscar as best picture. Oops—that will never happen! The folks at Cannes loved the picture and honored it with an extended standing ovation. Michael shares his views about guns in America in the same unabashed way he pontificates in his best selling book "Stupid White Men." Renaissance Place Cinema in Highland Park. 847-432-9999.

Jackass the movie ★★★★: Going where no movie has gone before, this is a feature-length film with the original creators and cast of the hugely successful MTV series "Jackass." Shot in Pennsylvania, Japan, Florida and California, the film will feature the 'Jackasses' performing their wildly absurd signature antics; and remember—they can never be accused of exercising good taste. Rated R with a running time of 83 minutes.

Shimer College performs Clifford Odets' 'Awake and Sing'

Clifford Odets' "Awake and Sing" will be performed at Shimer College in Waukegan on November 14-16 and 21-23 at 8 p.m. "Awake and Sing," a hit play on Broadway in 1935, was originally written for the Group Theatre, a legendary theatre company formed in the 1930s to support realistic theatre and acting. It was the first full-length play to be produced by Group Theatre on the commercial stage.

The play takes place in a two-bedroom apartment in the Bronx during the Depression. This portrait of the Bergers, a Jewish family struggling to survive in the Bronx captures the spirit of the Depression years. Trying to overcome financial difficulties, the Bergers take in a boarder, who is outspoken and challenges them to examine their lives, while the grandfather, with his Marxist leanings, tries to spur his family to action with the command to "Awake and Sing, ye that dwell in the dust." (Isaiah 26:19)

The play will be performed on Thurs.-Sat., Nov 14-16 and 21-23 at 8 p.m. in the Shimer College Gymnasium. Admissions is $5, $3 for seniors and students, and free to the Shimer Community. Call 847-623-8400 for reservations.

Folk club presents Dennis Warner

Nov. 17 welcomes Dennis Warner for his first appearance at the Greenleaf Grill, 301 Greenleaf St. in Park City.

From small village gatherings in Alaska to auditoriums in Florida, Warner has earned a reputation for being an outstanding entertainer. Blending acoustic folk/country music with humor, his uptempo family-friendly concerts have brought him a loyal and expanding audience. His credits include "Jammin' With Dennis Warner," a live NPR radio show. He has been on NPR's "Great Acoustics, Live!" and "River City Folk." His songwriting has been recognized three times as a finalist in the Emerging Songwriter's 13 showcase at the Kerrville Folk Festival and two "New Artist" awards from Billboard magazine. He was also invited to play at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. as part of a series honoring American songwriters.

Star-studded events to kick off holiday season

A reading of 'The Polar Express' and book signing by the author

Join the Museum of Science and Industry on Friday, Nov. 22 for a fun-filled day of holiday festivities and start-studded events celebrating the opening of the Museum's newest permanent exhibit "The Great Train Story" and the annual "Sears Presents Christmas Around the World" and "Holiday of Light."

At 1 p.m., children and the young at heart are invited to bring their imaginations as a storyteller brings to life the modern-day holiday classic, "The Polar Express," by Chris Van Allburg. Children can sip hot chocolate while listening to the story of a young boy on his journey aboard the mysterious Polar Express train to the North Pole. Guests will also have the opportunity to meet Van Allsburg and receive a shiny sleigh bell—just like the one in the book.

Space is limited for the reading of "The Polar Express." Call 773-753-1351 to reserve your place.

The holiday activities begin at 10 a.m. with the unveiling of "The Great Train Story." Performances by the CTA Good News Gospel Choir and the Allegro Bell Choir will mark the occasion. Be one of the first to tour this new exhibit and follow the journey from Chicago to Seattle in under 10 minutes.

Visit the Museum's venerable "Sears Presents Christmas Around the World" and "Holiday of Lights." Learn how different cultures celebrate the holiday season and tour a magical forest of 49 trees decorated by Chicago's ethnic communities. The opening of one of Chicago's multcultural events will include chants by Buddhist monks, the high-kicking Rockettes, a mariachi band, Irish dancers, a Chinese dragon and an Elvis impersonator singing "Blue Christmas."

The Museum of Science and Industry is located at 57th St. and Lake Shore Drive in Chicago. For more information, visit www.msichicago.org.

Cassandra's of Long Grove masters the art of celebrating the holiday

Cassandra's of Long Grove, 130 Old McHenry Rd in Long Grove, will host two special events, marking the start of the shopping district's Countryside Christmas Celebration that continues through Dec. 24. Shops will begin observing holiday hours, staying open until 8 p.m. on Friday evenings.

On Friday, Nov. 22, Long Grove's Open House Night and the official start of Countryside Christmas, Cassandra's will welcome artist, teacher, author, and PBS television personality Tom Lynch. The internationally known watercolorist will visit the shop from 5-8 p.m. and share insights into his creative painting process that has guided and inspired professional and aspiring artists for the last 25 years. Lynch will sign copies of his new book, "100 Watercolor Workshop Lesson Charts" and other instructional books he has written. Limited edition prints will also be available for purchase, and refreshments will be served.

On Saturday, Nov. 30, Cassandra's resident artist, Dominick DePaolo, will conduct an oil painting demonstration for artists of all ability levels. DePaolo uses a special wet-on-wet technique that will enable one guest to take home the finished winter scene. Guests will also receive shopping certificates for Cassandra's Gift Gallery of Home Accents and for DePaolo's ongoing art classes.

The demonstration will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will take place in the private party room of Enzo and Lucia's, Long Grove's new Italian restaurant, located at 343 Old McHenry Rd., overlooking Fountain Square. Luncheon will follow. The cost is $20 per person. Seating is limited. For reservations, phone 847-634-2920 or visit www.CassLngGrv@aol.com.

Goodman Theatre celebrates 25th anniversary

This holiday season, the Goodman Theatre, 170 W. Dearborn St. in Chicago, will celebrate the 25th anniversary of its enchanting yuletide production, Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," with performances in the Albert Nov. 16 through Dec. 28. This 25th anniversary production of "A Christmas Carol" marks a debut for two talented Chicago theater artists – award-winning director Kate Buckley, who is staging the Goodman's "A Christmas Carol" for the first time, and Chicago actor William Brown, who is taking the role of the curmudgeonly miser Ebenezer Scrooge for the first time. Buckley has gathered a large and talented cast of 26 to appear in Tom Creamer's adaptation of what has become Chicago's best-loved holiday entertainment.

Over its 24 years of performances at the Goodman, close to a million Chicagoans have enjoyed Charles Dickens' classic story on stage. Hundreds of thousands of families have been warmed by Ebenezer Scrooge's magical transformation from a hard-hearted man of business into an open-handed, friend to humankind. Beginning with a marvelous story, then adding music, dancing—and magic—the Goodman's production of "A Christmas Carol" has something to charm every member of the family and is a wonderful way to introduce young people to live theater.

Tickets range from $20-$50 and may be purchased at the Goodman Theatre Box Office, 170 N. Dearborn St. in Chicago, or charged by calling 312-443-3800.

Prepare for a meaningful Thanksgiving tradition

NEWS-WORTHY

Sharon Westbrook

A wonderful Thanksgiving tradition is to invite guests who have no family in the area or nowhere to go on that day. Celebrating this holiday by reaching out to others certainly brings more meaning to the day.

Plan ahead

Preparations for your Thanksgiving dinner can be done ahead of time to alleviate last minute stress. Plan a simple menu of turkey, dressing, cranberries, mashed potatoes, gravy, sweet potatoes, green beans, rolls, and pumpkin pie. This provides for a colorful assortment of food. You can roast the turkey, make the dressing and gravy, and provide beverages. Consider asking each guest to bring one of the vegetable dishes, rolls, cranberries, or pies. Keep a list of who is bringing what. Ask guests to call a few days before Thanksgiving if they cannot come to dinner so you can plan accordingly.

Reflect on the real meaning

Read the true story of the first Thanksgiving to your children or grandchildren several days before you begin your preparations. If you need some excellent resources check out the Focus on the Family web site at www.family.org or the Family Life Today web site at www.familylife.com. You will find historically accurate accounts about the first Thanksgiving and many other wonderful articles on how to add more meaning to this special holiday.

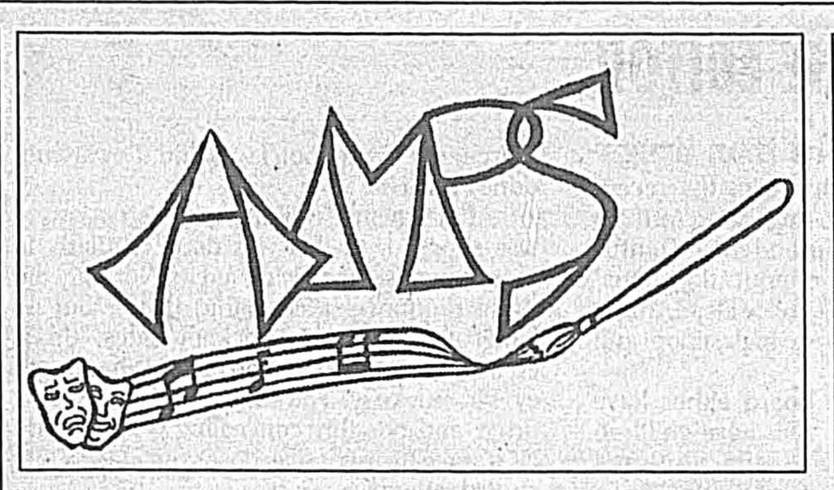

Cultivate a heart of Thanksgiving

Have your family get involved in making place cards for each guest. Fold an unlined 3 x 5 card in half. Write each guest's name on the front of the card and decorate with a Thanksgiving theme. Stickers are great to use. Inside the card write a personal "thank you" message to that person. Another idea is to write a Bible verse that reflects "giving thanks" on each card. As guests are gathered around the table each one can read what is on his or her card.

To allow everyone to share a personal moment of thankfulness, place two kernels of corn on each plate. Before dinner, take turns and let each person briefly say two things they are especially thankful for. A different idea is to make 3 x 5 cards with "I am thankful for" written at the top. These cards could be given to each guest as they arrive to allow time to think about and write down their response. Have each person read their expression of thankfulness during the meal or after dinner while everyone is still gathered around the table.

Above all, don't forget to say grace! Express your thanks to God for family, friends, food, and fellowship. Don't eat too much turkey, but do have a very happy and meaningful Thanksgiving!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Searches find more than drugs

I am writing in response to the recent articles in the newspapers regarding Antioch High School, Superintendent Dennis Hockney, and the board of education refusing to support the Antioch Police Department to do random searches in the high school and parking lots.

Do members of the board either have children or have friends who have children attending ACHS that are being protected because they have something to hide? It certainly makes on wonder.

We moved into this district four years ago. Three years ago one of my children started at ACHS. I went to the school to meet some of the staff, ask about the classes etc. I also inquired as to how often there are drug searches at the school. I was told they are not done at ACHS.

After having lived all over this country, I was shocked, as this was done regularly in every town we had ever lived in. Not only did these random searches find drugs, but all kinds of weapons. Mr. Hockney states, "this is an invasion of students privacy." What privacy, Mr. Hockney? The students who are using drugs and possibly concealing weapons, do NOT have the right to expose your staff or any students to these.

I know I speak for many concerned parents in this district. Eighteen months ago, I lost my oldest son in a tragic car accident, and two families lost their sons in this accident because my son was under the influence of drugs and alcohol.

Guess what members of the board? The drugs and alcohol came from Antioch. Some of the students admit they use before school and in school. What other probable cause do you need? Wake up, there is a problem at ACHS with students using and selling drugs. My son warned me. He was concerned about his siblings going to ACHS. He told me that he knew of more kids using and selling drugs at this school than any high school around. He said "Mom, it's easier to get drugs there than a can of pop."

I commend Mayor Maravelas, Chief Watkins, and the Antioch Police Department, and the Village of Antioch. They are trying to tell you that we all need to take a stand, have zero tolerance. The police departments have to deal with this problem on a regular basis. They do all the dirty work and wonder when they are going to get a call of a drug overdose, or worse yet, dread when they will get a call for a fatal accident caused by some young person using. How frustrating it must be for them to try and reason with you, and the board of education.

As for parents who are also against these searches, shame on you, you are the "so called parents" who either supply your children with alcohol and drugs, and/or party with them. I only hope you never have to bury a child. My living children have rights, as well as the rest of the students at ACHS. They have the right to go to school and get an education without being exposed on a regular basis to drugs and possibly weapons. Please get your heads out of the sand and admit that there is a problem at ACHS. Obviously you and the board of education say "YES" to drugs.

In loving memory of Matthew Elliott

until the costs are covered, an estimated 4-5 years.

Pierce asked what the difference was between the developer recapturing the costs directly over doing it through the village via the sales taxes. "The timing is the difference," said Barrett, indicating the costs would be recuperated much more quickly under the developer's proposal.

"So we're (the Village of Antioch) is taking all the risk?" Pierce asked rhetorically.

Trustee Caulfield asked, "Are you willing to forego the sales tax rebate and go the more traditional recapture route?" Barrett, "No."

Mayor Taso Maravelas said a rebate "is not agreeable" with him and that he, on behalf of the village, is unwilling to accept the financial responsibility for the services necessary for Wal-Mart to conduct business.

During public comment, John Horan chimed in, "Let them build Wal-Mart, and take all the tax dollars. Make them pay for everything."

The topic will resurface on the village board's Dec. 16 agenda.

BOARD

that serve residents of Lindenhurst. Students in parts of Lindenhurst attend Grayslake Community High School.

At present, Lake Villa C.C. School District 41 allows 1-3 random searches using the dog during each school year, in coordination with the school's resource officer, a member of the Lake Villa Police Department. In the past three years, no contraband was found on any search, according to District 41 superintendent Mike Anderson.

Random searches are considered controversial because some people fear they might lead to lawsuits from students who consider their fourth amendment rights at risk.

Attorneys for the village of Antioch have indicated the searches, when limited to school property such as lockers, are not violations of personal civil rights.

The resolution was presented to the board by two Antioch board members, Larry Hansen and Bob Caulfield.

Members of the board individually expressed support for the random searches, but were hesitant to represent the community on the question before citizens had a chance to register their opinions.

Trustee Carl Norlin raised the question of whether the public had become too dependent on schools in dealing with the drug problem.

"I don't hear anyone talking about parental responsibility," he remarked. "People send their kids to school and say 'you take care of my kid.'"

"I'd like to encourage residents to use our e-mail address (lindenhurstil@ cs.com) to let us know what they think," said Lindenhurst Mayor Paul Baumunk. "I encourage board members to talk to their neighbors and their kids."

The Lindenhurst board will respond to the question at its next meeting, on Monday, Nov. 25, at 7 p.m.

my oldest son in a car crash. He was on drugs and alcohol that came from this town. I supported him being put in rehab, but he's not here anymore."

Watkins reiterated that only lockers would be checked, and that students make a choice about what they choose to put in a locker.

Supt. Dennis Hockney said, "We're not trying to hide any drug problems. There seems to be a disagreement about how to best address this."

Vitucci addressed the board a second time and said, "A bulk of students come from District 34, and we're used to the drug searches. Parents want this."

Delany said the board is concerned about the methodology. "The dog is one issue, but there are other issues on the table. I'm concerned about what is good for the students.

Days later, Hockney said "something" had been drafted as a response, but noted the entire board had not had the opportunity to review it.

He added, "We have been advised from counsel that this requires probable cause. If information comes to us that shows probable cause or if we find it ourselves, we will work in concert with appropriate law enforcement."

According to Hockney, a decision is to be made at the next school board meeting. "Right now, that's scheduled for Nov. 21, but it may happen a couple of days earlier," said Hockney. He indicated a Tri-Conference meeting in downtown Chicago on Nov. 22 is the reason the board meeting may be changed.

Tip of the cap

While many perhaps anticipated Carmel and Libertyville football to be where they are—the quarterfinals—in their respective classes in the State playoffs, another program is certainly knocking on the door. A bunch of guys just having a good time. They happen to know how to play the game, too. Playing in the big games has also helped.

Yes, Vernon Hills football is for real. After a 2-7 campaign in their inaugural season three years ago, the Cougars bounced back to finish 8-4 overall a season ago. It was a year that was highlighted by a quarterfinal appearance in the Class 6A State playoffs. Winning two playoff games in only their second season as a team!

Head coach Tony Monken would have laughed at you if you predicted his troops, consisting of juniors and a first-ever senior class at the time, would be in that position.

"I definitely would have laughed," said the coach. "We didn't even know if we would be able to get 20 guys (our first year)."

Monken got 20 guys, all right. And he only had sophomores and juniors to work with. They responded. Ask speedster running back Keith Heerdegen.

"We're really proud of how far we've come in such a short time," said Heerdegen, one of the main workhorses in a speed-ridden offensive backfield. Heerdegen's speed was showcased when the senior finished in the top-6 in both the 100 and 200 dashes at the IHSA Track and Field State meet last spring. "A lot of it has to do with dedication and desire. Hitting the weight room a lot more also helps."

Vernon lost some key players to graduation last spring, and along with Heerdegen, will lose a slew of them again next spring. But notice the trend Vernon has set. All of the seniors-to-be this year, as well as current sophomores, have already seen what it's like to play football on the varsity level. It wasn't by choice. The system just fell into place that way.

Junior Chris Howard has gotten a taste of varsity football. He'll be a key ingredient returning next fall.

"We just want to try and get to the next level every year," said Howard, who rumbled in from 54 yards on a fake punt during the Cougars season-ending loss to mighty Mt. Carmel last weekend. "Momentum, to keep building momentum. That's the main thing."

Monken agreed.

"We're getting closer," the coach said. "We lose six 3-year starters. But we'll also have plenty of returing starters back next year. The important thing is to keep improving. To keep building. And playing at this level, to see what it's all about, definitely helps. It's all about getting experience."

Don't be surprised next fall if Vernon equals this year's 7-4 mark. All of the ingredients are in place.

Stage set for showdown No. 2

Corsairs head to Gately for much anticipated rematch

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

One could have forecasted Carmel and Mt. Carmel would be on a collision course ever since the third week of the season.

It was back then that Carmel took another step towards the state's elite status when it went down to the south side of Chicago and Gately Stadium and brought a 24-21 victory back to Mundelein.

Only Sat., Nov. 16 at 1 p.m. again at Gately, there will be a little more riding on the line—a date in the Class 6A semifinals against the winner of Rock Island and Crystal Lake South.

Carmel, though winning 35-21 over a pesky North Chicago team in second-round action last week, didn't look as sharp as fans been accustomed to seeing.

"We need to work on reading the option better," said Bitto after his team's 16th win in a row at home. "I think they'll (Mt. Carmel) try and establish (running back) Greg Owns early."

In the first meeting, Carmel limited Owens to under 50 yards rushing.

"He'll get his yards," said Bitto. "We just have to avoid giving up the big play to him or anyone on their team. The game will come down to special teams play. We also have to avoid turnovers."

In the victory in week 3, the Corsairs followed that formula to a tee—Matt Orscheln returned a punt 60 yards for a score. The Corsairs also had no turnovers.

"If we concentrate on our blocking assignments and execute, we'll be successful," said Bitto.

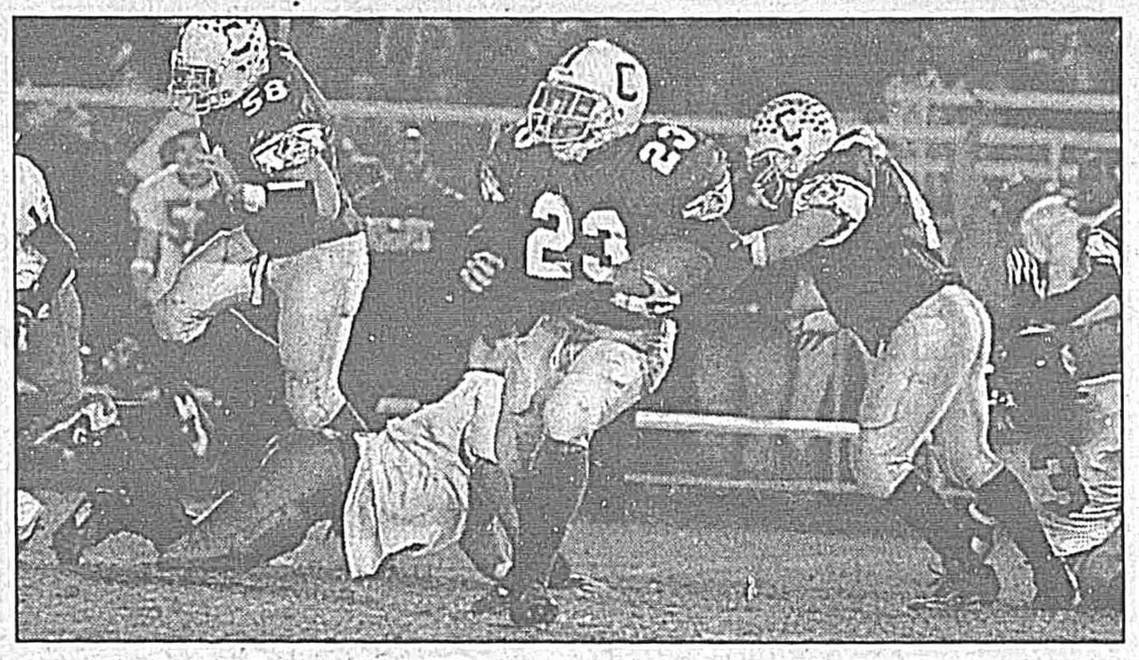

As for Owens, the Caravan senior running back showed his true form in a 34-8 second-round win over Vernon Hills last week. He dashed for 97 yards on 15 carries and a score.

Meanwhile, Carmel wasn't as sharp against the Warhawks but still did the things a championship team needs to do in order to pull out a win.

Like, how about the defense. North Chicago had two long sustained drives that ate up plenty of clock. The result—no points.

"We didn't play particularly well in the second half but the defense came up with big stops when it needed to," said Bitto. "They had one drive that was almost 9 minutes. They didn't score."

Sophomore lineman Luis Cuevas was one of many standouts on defense this evening. Cuevas was called up for the week 7 game against Benet when starter Ryan Siebert went down with an injury.

Carmel's Dexter Reid Jr. (No. 23) has his sights on the end zone after recovering a fumble during the Corsairs 35-20 victory over North Chicago in the second round of the Class 6A State playoffs.—Photo by Samir Id-Deen

"It's a much faster pace at the varsity level," said Cuevas, who had three sacks and a fumble recovery against North Chicago. "I think I'm pretty quick to the ball. But if I mess up, there are so many other great players around me."

One of them is cornerback Dexter Reid Jr., who caused his usual commotion in the secondary in breaking up three passes while recovering a fumble.

Reid Jr. and the Carmel secondary will have to contain Caravan wideout Frank Lenti Jr., who caught 6 passes for 78 yards and two scores against the Cougars.

"We just have to keep the ball away from their offense," said Bitto. "They're very potent, especially when you give them a short field. We'll take whatever they give us, though. If they cram everyone on the line of scrimmage, (Jack) Simmons, (Sean) Walker and (Mike) Serio will have big days. It's basically going to come down to our running game against their linebackers."

'I think they're chasing us now'

Andy Bitto, Carmel head coach on the Class 6A quarterfinal match-up with Mt. Carmel, a team the Corsairs beat 24-21 during the regular season

And welcome back, Brandon Ziemann. Your number will definitely be called upon against the Caravan.

Ziemann, the featured back in the triple-threat offense, has missed four weeks with a partially torn MCL in his knee.

Ziemann, in limited action, ran for 47 yards and a score against North Chicago.

"It's great to have him back in there," said Bitto. "It gives us yet another weapon on offense to keep them (Mt. Carmel) off balance."

But Bitto thinks his team has the most important edge—mental.

"I think they're chasing us now," the coach said.

After the game in week 3, they certainly are.

Sequoits' Napier runs to 27th; successful season concludes

By JOE PRUSKI
Correspondent

The Antioch High School boy's cross country season ended on a high note last weekend when the team's lone runner at the state meet finished in the top-30.

Junior Andy Napier finished the three-mile trek in just over 15 minutes, with a personal best time of 15:08, good enough for 27th place in a field of over 250 runners.

"It was a little nerve racking," said Napier of his first appearance at the State competition. "It was big, it was like all my other meets except many times the size."

The race was held at Detweiler Park in Peoria, with the ceremonies taking place at the Peoria Civic Center.

"I thought Andy had a fantastic season," said head coach Dave Judson. "He was only two spots away from All-State. He was an All-regional and All-sectional runner—that's fantastic, especially because he's only a junior."

Napier's time was seventh best of non-seniors.

"I would have liked to have finished in the top-25 and been named All-State, but I'm very happy finishing 27th," he said.

Stephen Pifer of Edwardsville High School won the individual event with a time of 14:33, while York High School dominated the field in the team competition with a score of 125. Stevenson High School took second in the team standings with a score of 198.

As a team Antioch earned a trip to sectionals after finishing second at the Mundelein regional on October 26.

The team then competed in the Schaumburg Sectional where they were unable to finish in the top-5.

Among the team's accomplishments this season was a strong showing in the conference, where they finished third overall. The Sequoits also earned second place at the Antioch Invitational.

'We had some good races this year. We were a little disappointed we didn't 3-peat as conference champs, but we did well'

Junior Andy Napier, Sequoit cross-country runner

"We had some good races this year," said Napier. "We were a little disappointed we didn't 3-peat as conference champs, but we did well."

With nearly the entire Antioch squad returning next season (five of the team's top seven runners), including the core of Napier and junior Jim Beatty, Antioch should be in prime position to qualify for the State meet come the fall of 2003.

"I was hoping that maybe we'd do a little better this season, but unfortunately we had some kids who didn't run much over the summer, but I think they've learned from that," said Judson. "Hopefully we'll work harder over this summer and be an even better team next season."

Napier echoed his coach's comments, "I'm happy with how the year went and I'm hoping I'll be (at State) next year with the rest of the team."

Round Lake Heights has been paying Round Lake Beach 64 cents per 1,000 gallons since 1995 for water transmission. Under the new proposal by Round Lake Beach the rate would increase to $1.13 per 1,000 gallons. According to Round Lake Heights Mayor Lumpkins the Round Lake Beach village board is saying that their equipment will need to be repaired 50 years sooner than he thinks it will need to be repaired.

Vista, LCCC see changes at top

By MARC JENKINS
News Editor

In an apparent belt-tightening move, Vista Health, operators of Waukegan's Victory and St. Therese hospitals and numerous other satellites, fired chief operating officer Ken Richmond Monday.

Richmond was also the current chairman of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce. He was named to that post—a one year term—in March. He resigned his position on the chamber this week.

Jennifer Yonin, a Vista spokesman, said the staff received an internal memo regarding Richmond's termination.

"I can only tell you what I know," Yonin said. "The memo we received (from CEO Tim Harrington) said that due to financial difficulties, we have to reduce the cost of executive payroll. Ken Richmond, the newest member of the executive board, has left the organization.

Richmond had been COO at Vista for 15 months, starting in August 2001.

Yonin said although the company is looking to rein in costs where it can, any cuts would not happen for the sake of patient service.

"If an organization is top-heavy in payroll," Yonin said, "a cut from the executive board can make a significant financial impact.

"We look at where we can be efficient," Yonin said. "Nothing will be lost in terms of service. We're in a business of caring for people and need to maintain that."

Vista plans to open a 120-bed full-service hospital in Lindenhurst in three years while closing St. Therese, on Waukegan's west side, by 2005.

But according Linda Lampinen, Vista department heads have been asked to make budget cuts to help offset a rough going in 2002.

"We've had some tough financial times this year," said Linda Lampinen, manager of community relations for Vista. "All departments have been asked to help make up losses we've had this year."

But Richmond, who did not immediately return a request for an interview, will be missed by Vista.

"Obviously he's going to be missed by those who worked with him closely, the leadership he's helped to provide," Lampinen said.

Lake County Chamber of Commerce president and CEO Katie Spies agrees.

"Ken stepped up to take a lead in our chamber with passion and dedication and unselfish time," Spies said. "He provided a lot of new creative full-spirited ideas. He will be missed."

Remember stories about the plaintiff wails of young children, "Grandpa. What did you do in the war?"

Robert "Bob" Lasco heard enough of those questions in his own family to finally pursue a Purple Heart medal he won as a Marine in combat in the South Pacific during World War II, but never was awarded.

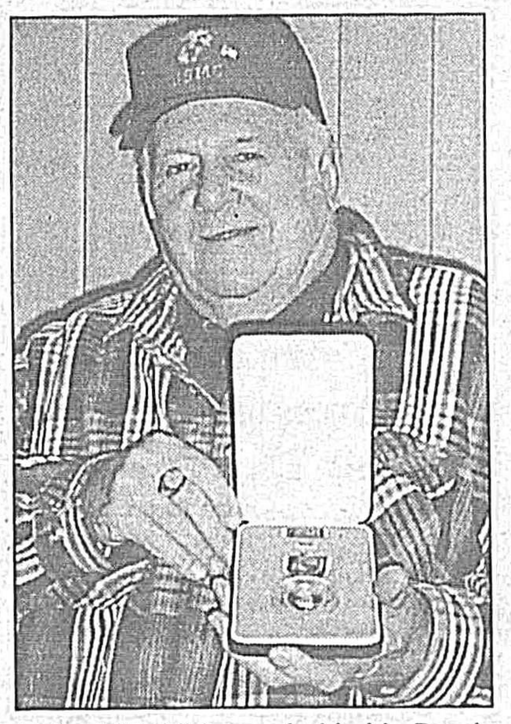

That was 57 years ago when Lasco as a 17-year old rifleman participated in some of the fiercest fighting of the war. He suffered wounds May 5 and May 7, 1945.

A busy retiree who is active in veterans' organizations, Lasco chuckles when relating how he obtained his medal.

"I thought it was about time I did something. The kids were wondering if their grandfather actually served in combat with the Marines," related Lasco, who is best known today as the "Christmas Tree Man" for the seasonal business he has operated on Route 83 south of Antioch for 22 years.

What Lasco did was apply to the National Personnel Records Center in St. Louis.

Shoppers, villages await the verdict of union vs. grocer

By STEVE PETERSON

Municipalities are attempting to figure out what possible impacts a future job action at Dominick's Finer foods may have.

The union representing the grocery store chain's clerks, the United food and Commercial Workers, has authorized a strike against the grocery store group.

"According to the State of Illinois, we received $149,876.66 last quarter from all food sources, and $90,965.79 from all drug sources. They are not broken down by business," said Cheryl Adams, Wauconda's director of finance.

It will take an additional two or three months after any job action to determine the impact on sale tax, because there is a lag time, Adams said. "I would imagine that the people who go to Dominick's would go elsewhere in Wauconda.

The Wauconda Dominick's has been at the same shopping center at Routes 12 and 176 since Sept., 1997.

The Fox Lake Dominick's is one of the newest stores of the 119 in the Chicagoland area. It was opened in April, under conditions of a sales tax agreement signed by a previous village board.

"The arrangement is for 75-25 in sales tax. We have given them two checks so far," said Paul Christensen, village treasurer.

A dollar store, a skateboard shop and a cellular phone retailer have opened up shop since at Fox Lake Crossings, at the intersection of Big Hollow Road and Route 12.

In Gurnee, any job action at Dominick's would have an impact on sales tax, said Pat Wesolowski, finance director.

"It would have an impact because Dominick's is one of the top 20 in sales tax sources. They and Jewel-Osco are the top two in retail, and we rely heavily on sales tax," Wesolowski said.

Safeway, Inc. has threatened to close all Chicagoland area Dominick's.

S.J. Peters, spokesman for the 8,900-member clerks union, explained the union's positions.

"Their last, best and final offer was rejected by 80 percent of the membership. The ball is in their court now. We are hoping that they are ready to return to the bargaining table. Are we ready to strike? Yes. But they are also working hard as always for Dominick's and Safeway," Peters said.

"The company's allegations (about misrepresentation of the contract and how it was presented to membership) are just untrue. We allowed everyone at the meetings who wanted to come to the microphones and ask questions. Our union president made sure that there was no shouting or vulgarities. We treated everyone their with respect and had interpretations for those speaking Spanish. We did not in any way misrepresent their offer. It came right from a document that they handed our union president," Peters said.

Peters said the company's offer would limit the amount of money a clerk could make and hurt pension contributions. The company has said it must reduce its labor costs.

"Our No. 1 goal is to come up with a contract that will benefit membership," Peters said.

Two shoppers at the Fox Lake Dominick's store on a Tuesday morning differed with that view.

"I hope that the union backs down. Everyone has had to make sacrifices and in this day and age, they are lucky to have jobs. My children have had to kick in more for their health insurance," said Dorris Harris of Round Lake.

"I love this store. I hope that they don't close it down. I come here three times a week," said Joanne Barr of Ingleside, whose children enjoy riding in the wagons that the store provides.

Safeway, Inc. purchased the company, which has ties to the Chicago area since 1925, four years ago. The chain has stores in Gurnee, Round Lake Beach, Mundelein, as well as Wauconda and Fox Lake.

Dominick's issued a statement regarding the strike vote from its corporate headquarters in Oak Brook.

"The strike vote conducted by the UFCW was less than fair. It was a flawed vote taken under flawed conditions," said Wyonna Redmond, a spokesman for Dominick's. "The union misrepresented our offer and intimidated our employees."

Many of Dominick's employees were shaken when they left the voting, the company contends. There was irregularities in the process. The offer was the company's "last, best and final offer. Employees also reported that the union told them in writing that if they gave the union a strike vote, the union would conduct another "final vote" before actually calling a strike, making the strike vote not legitimate and at best a farce," Redmond stated.

"No one should interpret this vote as a thoughtful rejection of our offer. This was supposed to be a fair and democratic process and it was anything but that. We've given the UFCW leadership our last, best and final offer. Under current economic conditions in this market, we believe it is a fair offer, and think our employees deserve a fair chance to vote it," said Scott Grimmett, president of Dominick's, in a prepared statement.

The company seeks another union vote with private ballots.

The union has rejected the claim of intimidation.

Forest Preserve acquires 20-30 acre parcel of land near Volo to be used to connect Lakewood and Singing Hills Preserves

By STEVE PETERSON

Lake County Forest Preserve added 73 acres to its inventory of land it owns in Lake County, making a move westward to better accommodate planned trails.

The Forest Preserve Board's land acquisition committee voted unanimously to purchase the land located off Fish Lake Road and east of land it had purchased from Camp Duncan YMCA.

"The purpose of the purchase is to open up new trails, eventually connecting Lakewood and Singing Hills Preserves (near Volo)," said Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside). "It is part of the Millennium Trail. It has woodlands, ponds, and its high point overlooks Fish Lake."

The agreed upon purchase price was $1,642,500, or $22,000 per acre. The property is bordered by Fish Lake Road, Wilson Road and Levi Waite Road near Volo.

Carter described how the purchase of the property came about.

"It was discussed when I was working with Baxter on the solution for the Long Lake discharge. We were able to develop a good working relationship," Carter said.

Baxter Laboratories, which owned the parcel, gave an easement east of Wilson Road for the trails to go in.

The full Lake County Forest Preserve Board will consider the purchase at its Nov. 15 meeting.

"We still have a couple of parcels to go in the area, but this is a very nice parcel. It has 20-30 acres of old hickories, and is a quality property," said Al Westerman, Lake County Forest Preserve president.

Also to be considered at the Nov. 15 meeting will be 8.4 acres of additional land, at a price of $104,500 adjacent to the Nippersink Forest Preserve.

"With the passage of the maintenance fund increase, we will be able to move ahead with a lot of projects," Westerman said.

The purchase of the parcel brings to 24,000 acres in Lake County Forest Preserve's control in the county, 3,000 during Westerman's two years as president.

The Nov. 15 meeting will be Westerman's final as its president, as he did not seek re-election this year.

Lasco explained that Purple Hearts typically were awarded in the field of action. "My division was sent to China and I wound up on a hospital ship. My medal simply was lost in the shuffle." He was discharged from active duty in October 1945.

For his service, Lasco also was awarded a Bronze Star for valor, a medal he still has yet to receive. The young Marine suffered leg wounds. "At the time it was more important to come home with my good health rather than worry about medals."

Because he didn't have a high school diploma, Lasco said he handled jobs like bartending and house moving after the war. He ultimately started his own golf ball retrieval business, traveling throughout the Midwest .

"I did all right. It was hard work, but I enjoyed the work," Lasco started. Much of the time Lasco worked underwater, donning diving gear. He said he once worked 80 feet deep in a one-time gravel pit adjacent to a golf course in Ohio.

The business helped raise a family, he points out with pride.

Selling Christmas trees also has proved to be a good business. A lot of his sales result from repeat customers who enjoy his jovial personality and visiting an on-site Santa Claus.

"Best of all," Lasco beams, "the grandchilden now know that their grandfather was a real U.S. Marine with medals to prove he served."

According to a Lake County Chamber member, Richmond sent his letter of resignation as chamber chair to executive board members on Monday, but made no mention of his termination from Vista.

According to Katie Spies, president and CEO of the LCCC, the chamber put a motion to replace Richmond on the next executive meeting agenda, set for Thursday, Nov. 13 and is expected to elevate chamber vice-chair Pam Harrower of Six Flags Great America to the vacated post.

"We have a close repoire with Six Flags," Spies said. "Pam has a high level of active involvement since joining the chamber almost three years ago."

If approved, Harrower would officially take the new position on Nov. 18.

If Harrower by chance does not replace Richmond, others said to be considered are treasurer Doug Blakeley, secretary Mike Galbraith and Tom Wabik, the immediate past chairman of the chamber.

Hospital probe wasteful exercise

From our vantage point far from the Washington Beltway, actions of the Federal Trade Commission to investigate the merger of Victory and Provena St. Therese hospitals couldn't be farther off the mark.

The FTC has authority to block mergers and acquisitions considered to reduce competition in the market place or create a monopoly.

Obviously, the federal sleuths haven't been paying much attention to what's going on in Lake County, a hotbed of competition in just about every commercial endeavor, including health care. Officers of Vista Health, a joint operating company that controls both hospitals, are enacting the merger precisely because there is no monopoly and because competition is driving the two separate hospitals to financial ruin.

The Vista plan to close St. Therese and invest $33 million in expansion at Victory and build a new $114 million 120-bed hospital in Lindenhurst is designed to maintain Vista's place in the competitive hospital mix in northeastern Illinois, not gobble up the healthcare market as a federal investigation implies.

FTC would do well to reconsider the purpose and practicality of probing the merger. An investigation doesn't make sense.

Forest vote OK earns 'thank you'

Two days after voters reaffirmed their support of the Lake County Forest Preserve District by approving a small tax increase for corporate purposes, members of the district's land acquisition committee recommended purchase of more open space. Adding more acres was sort of a thank you to voters.

Although small in size, the 73 acre purchase on Wilson Road in northwest Grant Township is significant because it represents cooperation with Baxter Healthcare Corp., a major land owner as well as a major employer. While the small parcel didn't fit in Baxter's plans for future growth at its Round Lake plant, the acquisition provides a link with adjacent district holdings in the vicinity of nearby Fish Lake.

The prospective purchase includes a scenic outlook and a stand of mature trees, a property that is certain to become an "oasis" in a sea of rapid growth and development.

The tax increase to bolster operating funds will impact the average homeowner approximately $10 to $12 per year. The vote, close at 84,953 for approval to 78,734, probably was due to the uncertain economy. But approval represented continued confidence in Forest District leadership and something more.

That "something more," according to Forest Commissioner Bonnie Thomson Carter, who represents the district in which the new acquisition is located, is an outlay of a few dollars more that represents pleasurable experiences families can enjoy for years to come. "In harder economic times, that's a real bargain," Carter asserted. Agreed.

Leaders flub Hispanic drive

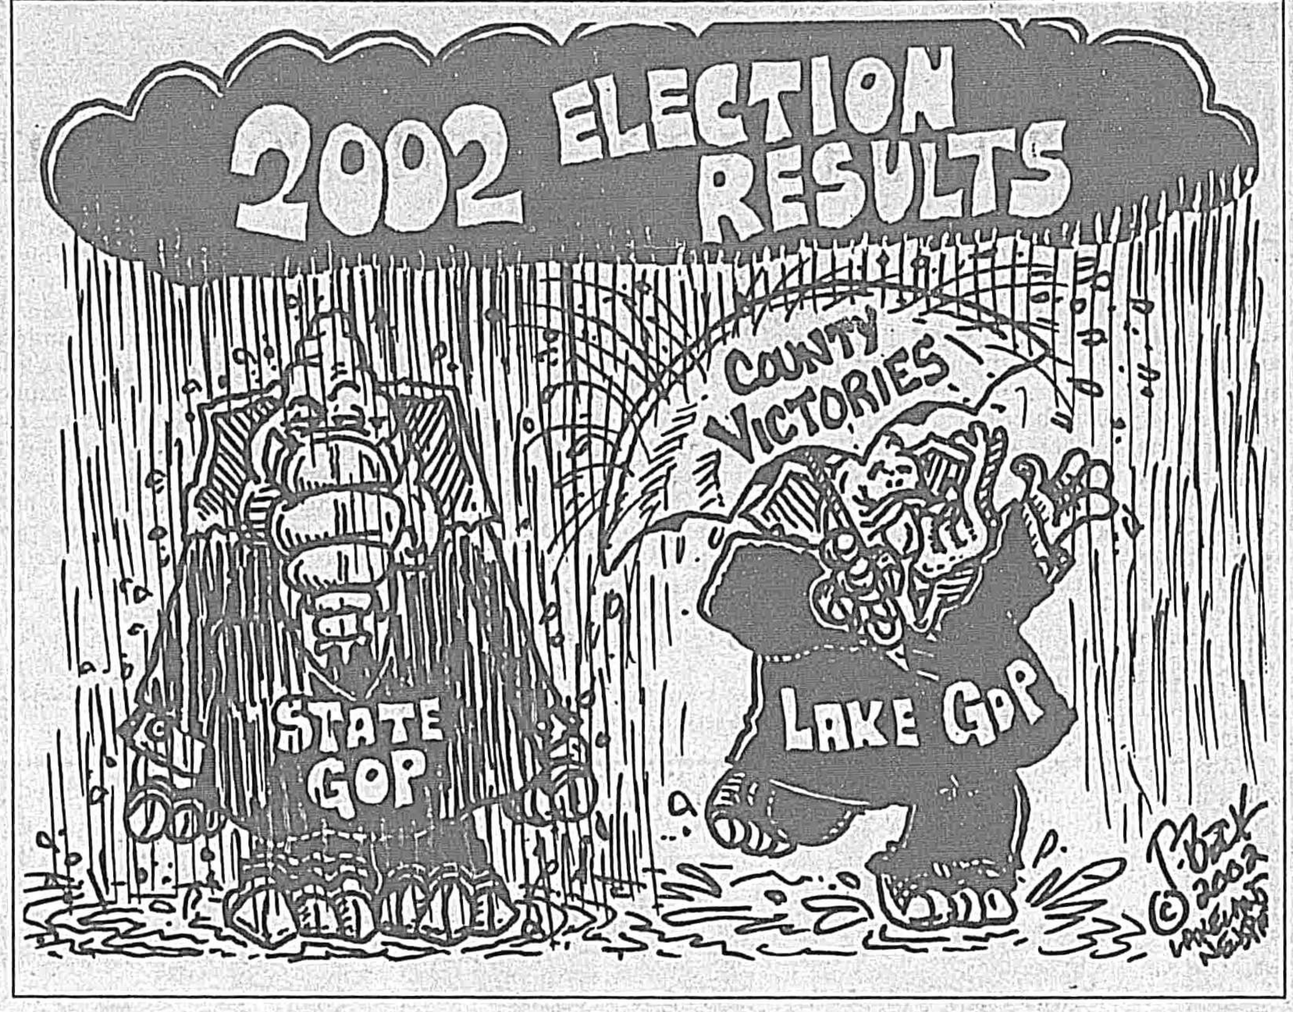

Before the 2002 election cycle began, leaders of both major parties in Lake County professed to recognize a major demographic shift by taking steps to elect a Hispanic. They muffed an opportunity—badly.

State Sen. Terry Link, county Democratic chairman, took his cue from redistricting designed to create a Hispanic-friendly Lake County Board District 9 in Waukegan. What happened was J. A. Tony Figueroa and Jose L. Zires cancelled each other out in the primary and a non-Hispanic woman was nominated. Green Oaks Mayor Tom Adams, county Republican chairman, took his cue from national GOP leadership advocating recruiting and supporting Hispanic candidates. The county GOP even got involved in a lawsuit to create a super Hispanic district. What happened was Dee Garcia, an attractive and well qualified businesswoman, was left to her own resources, especially when Hispanic youths, interested in Young Republican activities, were not embraced. She was defeated in a light voter turnout.

Historically, the Latino population in Lake County is not orientated toward partisan politics. Organization efforts typically aim in the direction of social services. Then there is the language barrier for older citizens of Hispanic heritage. But that is changing. Young Hispanics are bi-lingual. They're a significant part of the employment picture.

And they're ready, able and willing to go mainstream.

So the politicians stubbed a toe this year. But the next election is just around the corner. It will be interesting to see whether county Democrats or Republicans win the allegiance of Hispanics in the future.

Party difference? It's how they party

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

No differences in our major political parties? Wrong. There ARE major differences.

While President Bush passed the word that Republican gains in the U.S. Senate and House would be observed with dignity and decorum, Democrats in Illinois celebrating their state sweep were "dance'n in the streets."

Gov.-Elect Rod Blagojevich's Elvis impersonation to underscore his elation already has become part of Illinois political lore. What in the world was he thinking, not to mention what was he talking about with all the Elvis gobbledegook?

Lisa Madigan, delirious with victory as the first female Illinois attorney general in history, was bouncing off the walls like a coed just elected president of her college sorority.

Voters, particularly throngs in Chicago, were enthralled with the official Blagojevich campaign song "Promises, Promises." Maybe they understand Rod in Chicago, but the rest of us are going to need an interpreter to find out what the Guv is talking about. Lisa ought to be fitted with cement slippers to keep her feet on the ground when it comes time to deal with the serious side of the serious business of being attorney general.

Deciphering differences between Republicans and Democrats brought to mind a conversation with a hotel clerk in Springfield many years ago after Dan Walker, a Democrat, was installed as governor. "Notice anything different now that the Democrats are in power again?" we asked.

"Oh, yes," the clerk replied. "Lots of new faces. And lots of parties. All nighters. Those Democrats sure know how to party."

Tickets are available by calling 888-494-8705.

All former or current Marines and Navy corpsmen attached to Marine units are welcome to join. Meetings are held the third Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. at the Libertyville American Legion, 715 N. Obvious flaws ignored by GOP powerbrokers

By JORDAN MADORSKY

The overwhelming defeat of Jim Ryan, Joe Birkett and other statewide Republican office seekers stood in stark contrast to the success the Republicans enjoyed in Lake County and across the nation.

State Republicans need to learn the lesson I learned in my eighth grade woodshop class. Eager to finish my project—a bookshelf—I didn't adequately sand out and fill in several large blemishes in the wood grain. Instead I applied a coat of polyurethane hoping the bad spots would magically go away if I just glossed over them.

Since former Governor Jim Edgar stepped aside, Illinois Republican powerbrokers have foisted several statewide candidates upon the electorate who brought with them perceived flaws in their record and/or character.

Granted, no matter one's chosen career, we all get nicked and scratched a bit along the way. However, gubernatorial candidate Jim Ryan was doomed from the start, and almost everyone knew it. More important than the questions regarding Jim Ryan's health and the confusion over his last name, the Rolando Cruz issue was one that neither he nor Birkett could escape from. Perhaps fearing a lawsuit if they were to make a public apology to Cruz, the two DuPage County Republicans were attacked again and again because of their unwillingness to admit their mistake even in the face of DNA evidence. The plight of Cruz resonated with the electorate who felt sympathy for a

Outgoing commissioners win praise for contributions to managing stormwater, flooding.

Three retiring members of the Lake County Stormwater Management Commission were lauded for 20 years of collective service. They were commissioners by virtue of being County Board representatives.

Martha Marks of Riverwoods, who did not stand for reelection, was a key figure in Des Plaines River flooding protection. Loretta McCarley of Wadsworth , defeated in the primary, was credited with bringing together persons interested in the Bull Creek watershed project. Dr. John Schulien, Libertyville, a redistricting casualty, was credited for budgetary input.

All three are Republicans. Their seats will be filled with County Board representatives in a system that draws upon county officials and village representatives.

CMC Chairman Steve Mountsler of Barrington, reelected to the County Board Nov. 5 without opposition, is expected to retain his leadership position.

Holdover SMC members include Green Oaks Mayor Tom Adams, County Board Rep. Carol Spielman (D-Highland Park), Grayslake Mayor Tim Perry, County Board Rep. Bonnie Thomson Carter (R-Ingleside), Highland Park Ald. Steve Harris, Lake Zurich Mayor Jim Krischke and Lake Bluff Mayor Tom Skinner.

Departed North Chicago School Supt. Patricia Pickles was looking for a change in status for more than a year. Her interest in politics dimmed when an opportunity opened in Portland, Ore. as chief academic officer. As a Democratic nominee, Pickles considered the position of Lake County Regional School chief, but withdrew last summer. Pickles, a native of North Chicago, starts the Oregon job Monday, Nov. 18.

A pre-election day publication for the Lake County Republican Central Committee won praise. Jack Martin of Libertyville, a member of the publications staff, said the newsletter will be issued quarterly. The Lake County Republican Federation issues a monthly newsletter.

Opinion divided

Grayslake voters expressed divided opinion on the involvement in County Board politics of Mayor Tim Perry, who helped elect District 6 Rep. Don Bauer of Round Lake Park. Critics said a village president has no business in county politics. Others applauded Perry for the courage to speak out. Perry and Round Lake Mayor Ila Bauer, Don's wife, both share the conviction that a new rail commuter station at Washington and Lake Streets will be beneficial to the neighboring communities.

Need 'The word'

Lindenhurst is among a handful of villages that will fill the office of mayor at the April 1, 2003, consolidated election. Mayor Paul Baumunk has done everything but make a formal announcement to assure that he is running for reelection.

Island Lake Mayor Chuck Amrich put his stamp of approval on the location on Route 176 of a decommissioned Army helicopter as a fitting veterans memorial. The flag bedecked chopper site will be dedicated at 1 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 16. A feature of the display is that children will have access to the cockpit and crew area.

Alexander Pope for state poet?

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

During his campaign to become our governor, Rod Blagojevich spiced up his speeches with quotes from the likes of Robert Kennedy, Abraham Lincoln and Alexander Pope.

We all are familiar with Kennedy and Lincoln but when I asked friends who Alexander Pope was their eyes glazed over and the typical answer was "Duh?" or "Any relation to Pope John Paul?"

Actually, old Alex once was a mouth that roared. He has been called the greatest English poet of the early 1700's. His brilliant satires ridiculed many kinds of human follies and his biting wit made him one of the most feared writers in England.

No wonder Blagojevich borrowed him.

In that venerable reference book, "Bartlett's Familiar Quotations," Lincoln is quoted 53 times, George Washington 15 times and Alexander Pope 138 times. Holy cow.

Nine of the book's 1,500 pages are devoted strictly to Pope's prose and poetry. The editor of "Bartlett's," Justin Kaplan, says he likes Pope but "you just don't hear people quoting him on the street."

Except maybe Gov.-elect Blagojevich. Give Rod an "A" in English literature.

I have read Pope's 138 quotes in "Bartlett's" (research, research, research) and recognize only a few. In 1711, he wrote "An Essay on Criticism," a witty poem about writing which made him famous at the age of 23. It includes these golden oldies:

"A little learning is a dangerous thing," and, "To err is human, to forgive divine."

He also gave us the expression, "Hope springs eternal in the human breast." And, "'Tis education forms the common mind: Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined."

Other famous writers had differing opinions about Pope's poetry. Samuel Johnson wrote: "A thousand years may elapse before there shall appear another man with a power of versification equal to that of Pope."

But Oscar Wilde wrote: "There are two ways of disliking poetry: One way is to dislike it, the other is to read Pope."

At age 12, Pope was afflicted by a severe illness, a spinal infection that ruined his health and deformed his body. As a result, he grew to an adult height of only 4 feet 6 inches and developed a hunchback. Naturally, he was extremely sensitive about his appearance.

At the age of 30 his translation of the Greek epic poem, "The Iliad," amassed him a large fortune, making him financially independent.

His last major work, "The Dunciad," completed in 1743, was an attack on dunces. The poem ridicules dull writers, literary hacks, biased critics, overly scholarly professors and stupid scientists.

Pope is better known for his quarrels with other writers than his friendships, but he never lacked close friends. Before he was 17 he was admitted to London society and encouraged as a prodigy. One of his supporters was famous poet Jonathan Swift, 21 years Pope's elder.

Ever the scholar, Blagojevich quoted Pope at his victory celebration in his first words as governor-elect:

"I'm all shook up. Sure are a lot of people here. My heart is full tonight, and in my heart I have nothing but a whole bunch of hunka-hunka burnin' love for each of you."

Or was that Elvis?

man who wrongly languished on death row for so many years.

Some say that the seed of Jim Ryan's failure was sown four years ago when George Ryan blustered his way into the Governor's Mansion. Questions about George Ryan's political indiscretions go back to his first term as Secretary of State. Blame for George Ryan's damage to the Republican Party should be borne by the party's powerbrokers that chose to look the other way.

No matter the reason for the losses, if the Republican Party is going to once again become the dominant player in statewide races they are going to need to put their resources behind Republicans who can inspire the electorate. The seniority system clearly is not working. As the patina of the last election season developed, the weakness of Republican candidates became ever more obvious. Jim Ryan's lack of political traction no doubt stalled the campaigns of other statewide candidates. Stodgy organization politics may win primaries, but it will no longer win general elections. In today's political climate, voters with no deeply rooted political party ties vote for the candidates they like best no matter the party designation. The insiders must nominate candidates that the outsiders can embrace.

While watching the election night results on the television, I happened to look over at that old bookshelf. It was constructed 30 years ago, four years before the Republicans took control of the Governor's office. As an eighth grader I picked the best lumber I could find, but every piece of wood had a few blemishes. I now realize I should have spent more time dealing with the bad spots. My mistake was to think I could gloss over them. I can see them clearly still today. I hope the Illinois Republican Party can see their mistakes too!

Recycling works

Recycling is working in Illinois. Our efforts are keeping more than 5 million tons of useful materials out of landfills each year. We are now recycling 35 percent of our waste from our homes, businesses, and schools, up from only 9 percent 10 years ago.

A total of 2,400 Illinois businesses now exist to collect, sort, and re-manufacture products from our recyclable material. These businesses employ over 56,000 Illinois residents. Besides reducing the need for landfills, recycling in Illinois saves the equivalent of 53 million trees each year and also eliminates 131,000 tons of air pollution and 21,500 tons of water pollution. Using recycled material also saves enough energy to heat and light 578,000 Illinois homes.

While we have made tremendous progress in Illinois, a 35 percent recycling level means that 65 percent of our waste is still being wasted. Eighteen billion pounds of resources are still thrown away each year.

Nov. 15 is America Recycles Day—a day to rededicate ourselves to recycling.

Seeks starving

In letters to the editor, Brandon Roe questioned the appropriateness of food donations made to Afghanistan on the part of our government, stating that "many of our own countrymen are homeless and starving in the streets." Show me one of these Americans starving in the street, and I will show him the way to the Salvation Army, the Avon Township Food Pantry, PADS, or any one of a host of services available in this country for those who find themselves hungry or homeless. When we see images on the television of emaciated children with distended bellies and flies circling their faces, how often does the caption read, "Kentucky, USA?"

In spite of the recent economic downturns, we continue to have the privilege and blessing of living in the richest country in the world. Noblesse oblige, or "benevolent, honorable behavior considered to be the responsibility of persons of high birth or rank," would suggest to us that we as Americans have the obligation to help those who are starving wherever they are found. Poverty and hunger aren't aware of country borders, political leaders, or current world affairs. Besides that, those receiving the food in Afghanistan are probably not the ones against whom our troops have been fighting—could you lift an AK-47 if you did not eat for a week?

Do we base our compassion towards the needy on how well our leaders get along with their leaders, or do we base it on higher principles?

During this Thanksgiving season and thereafter, my hope is that Americans as a whole will continue to rise above the playground mentality of "my people are more important than your people" and share of the abundance that surrounds us, regardless of the nationality of those we find in need.

What happens when what's natural doesn't work?

Dear Dr. Singer,

We have gone to great lengths to deal with our children's behavior. We have read everything and also seen professionals and have really gotten nowhere on this. My main question involves natural consequences. We have heard this and read about this over and over again and have tried to use it, but have really found ourselves very limited with this. Are we just missing the boat or do you believe natural consequences work? Sign us...Pooped Parents in Palatine.

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Hi Pooped,

For the last couple decades or so, there has been a lot of advice given about natural consequences or logical consequences. These are consequences that apply logically or naturally to the situation. For example, the logical or natural consequence of breaking your toy is that you don't get to play with that toy anymore. Many people believe these to be the only consequences that work. I disagree wholeheartedly based on the fact that natural consequences are not always effective and cannot always be waited for or risked. For example, the natural consequence of running in the street is getting hit by a car. Now, anyone in his or her right mind knows that this is ridiculous. No parent is going to risk their child getting hit by a car for the purpose of learning not to run in the street. What about the child who wants to touch the hot stove? Are we going to let the child do this, based on the fact that it's a natural consequence to get burned, when we touch a hot stove? Of course not! Any responsible parent will try very hard not to have their child do this, or even come close. Let's look at one that isn't so crisis oriented. What about the child who is always late in the morning. This is the child who won't get out of bed when you ask. You need to be at work at a certain time and every morning is the same battle. You yell, you scream, you rant, you rave and still the child resists. Now, what is the natural consequence for this? If you went by the letter of natural consequences, it would be that the child would have to get him or herself to school or miss school. There are several problems with this view! First, most kids I know would relish the thought of a parent leaving without them. In their minds, they can stay home and watch their favorite shows. Who needs school anyway? Right? The other problem with this is a safety issue. If you leave your child to walk to school, alone, it can be a safety problem. I know many parents who battle with their children to get going because they do not want the child walking alone! In this situation, the natural consequences do not seem to work. The only one who seems to be getting the consequence is the parent.

So, once you've thought about the natural consequence to a behavior and cannot find one that fits in a safe and consistent way, what are you left with? Many people out there will tell you that if it's not "natural consequences" there will be no learning for the child. Again, I say, "hogwash!" Consequences, whether logical, natural or not, work if you use them appropriately, consistently and you mean business! My feeling is that there are several things that make consequences work. First, you have to know what is meaningful to the child. This is the most natural and logical thing I can think of, when it comes to consequences. What is going to effect this child? What means something to him or her? If it means something, it will get through! Second, consequences need to be appropriate. They need to make sense. They need to not be violent. Beating on your child teaches nothing but violence. Teaching them that bad decisions lose things that are meaningful to them, makes sense. This is something that they need to learn for later life too. All of us live in an adult world where good decisions are rewarded and bad ones are punished. Additionally, many times as adults we lose things when we aren't responsible. Right?

Be careful about only withdrawing privileges though. Most kids have something else to play with when something gets taken away. If this is the case, that child is feeling no punishment and behavior will not change. I cannot go into specific punishments in the scope of a column because one size does not fit all, but rest assured, I haven't met the kid I can't turn yet. Powerful consequences do the trick, trust me on that!

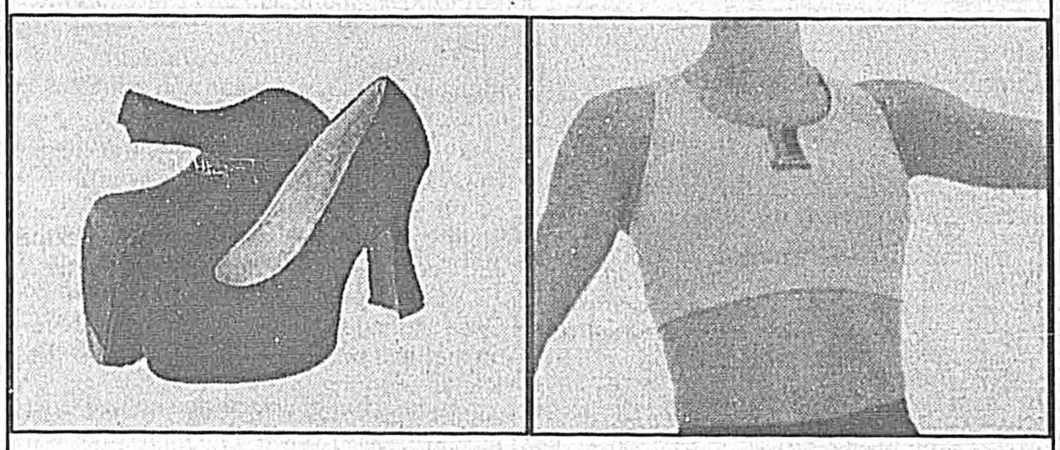

With our example of our child who won't get up on time, who is it that's feeling the consequence? The parent is the person who is feeling the brunt of the consequence. The parent gets bent out of shape and has to be late to work. This is the only natural consequence that comes out of this situation. The child feels nothing from this situation, except power. Our children need to be ready for the real world and if they don't learn it at home, where are they going to learn it?

So, when natural or logical consequences don't fit, make sure you use some appropriate consequence. If you're not sure of what works, ask your child. Children tell me what works with them, more than any other

Creating safe bathrooms for children

Kitchen and bathroom solutions made easy

In a perfect world, everything that works for adults would work just as well for children. But the reality is that traditional bathrooms are specifically designed to function for adults. Toddlers and small children face a host of possible safety issues every time they enter a bathroom. Thinking about potential pitfalls of the bathroom from a small child's point of view helps to create a safe and enjoyable environment for the whole family.

Fixture Fixes

Children often have a hard time navigating sinks, toilets and tubs made for adults. Here are some easy fixes.

Hang it Low

Make it easy for the kids to use the sink by installing a wall-hung model several inches lower than you would for an adult. For added fun, choose a sink with a whimsical pattern.

Step it Up

Place a step stool near the bathtub so little ones can climb in and out easier. Make sure the tub is slip proof and never leave children unattended while bathing.

Just Add Water

Here are some quick and fun ideas to build safety into bath time for any age child.

Safe Space

Give children a lower drawer or cabinet for their storage. Kids' towels and toys can be left unlocked for them to play with at bath time.

Potty Training Made Easy

If you have a bathroom dedicated to the children in the house, install a toilet designed specifically for three-footers. American Standard's Baby Devoro toilet has a rim height of 10 1/4 inches making it perfect for toddlers as well as grade-school aged children. And it is compatible with standard plumbing so it can be easily replaced with a full-sized toilet when the kids grow up.

Smaller is Better

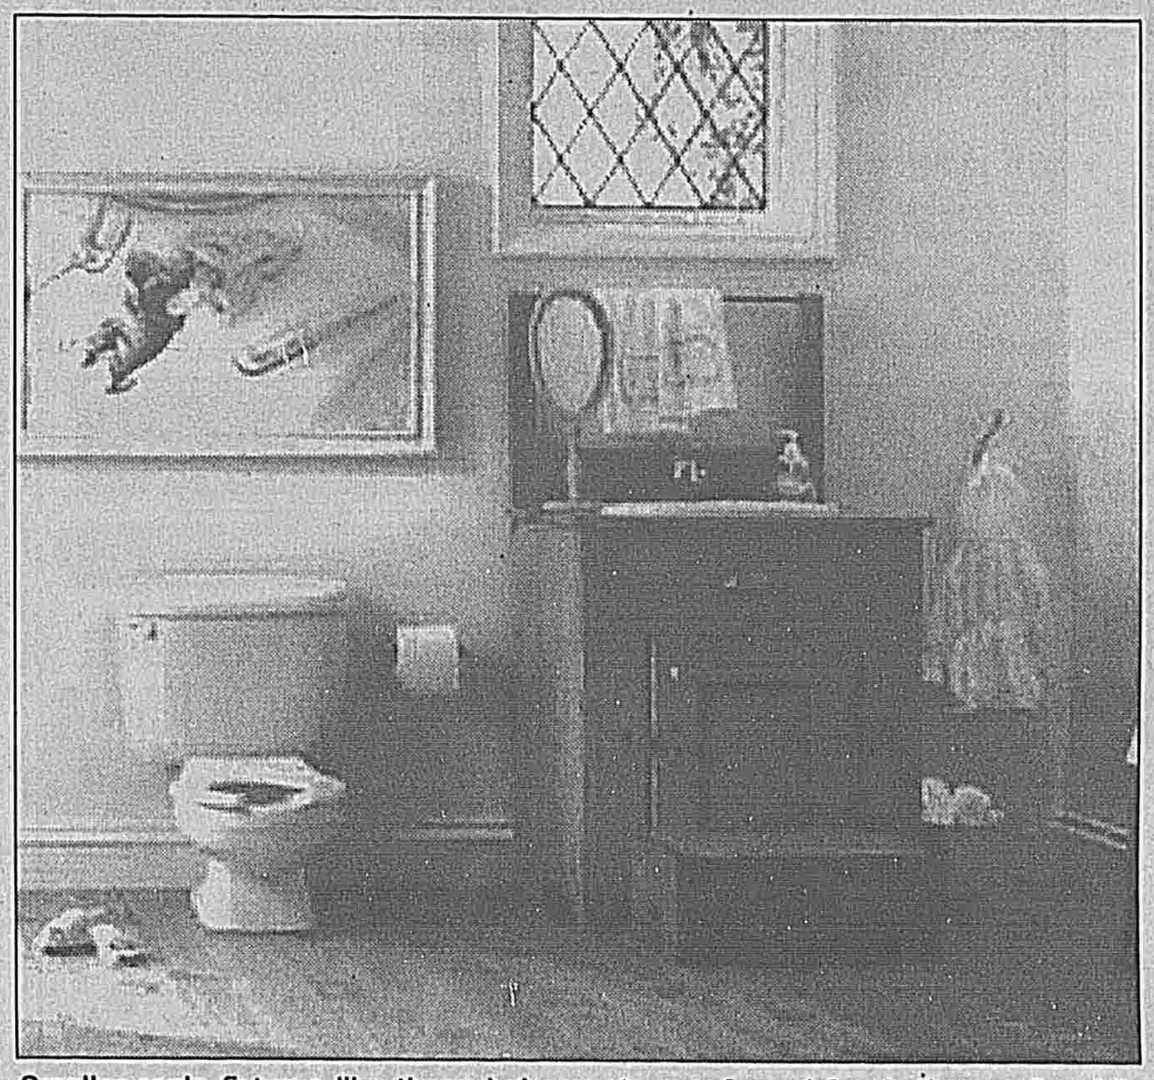

Refill small plastic bottles of shampoo so children can learn how to handle and pour their own shampoo with your supervision. Kids' soaps and shampoos are less likely to sting eyes and come in fun shapes and scents.

Pocket Storage

Many of today's colorful new shower curtains come with breathable pockets for wet toy storage. These mesh curtains are a great way to keep toys put away and mildew-free.

Safety Underfoot

Many popular bathroom flooring materials can become slippery when wet. Smooth tile or granite may look great and be easy to upkeep, but it can be dangerous under little feet. Choose a safer alternative like vinyl or textured tiles.

Smaller-scale fixtures like these help create a safe and fun bathroom for children.

source. Ask them what they own that they like. You can also ask what activities they like the best. Make sure to ask these questions when you're not in the heat of battle with them. At a calm and cool time, interview your child and find out what will work. Remember, though, finding out what works and then not using it, does nothing for anyone. Don't feel bad doing this! You aren't being sneaky. You aren't being nasty. You're simply being methodical about finding out and using what will work quickly and effectively. This way is better for your child and you.

Consequences don't need to necessarily be natural. If they're appropriate, thought out ahead of time, methodically decided upon and then implemented without hesitation, they will work. If your child has to sit in time out after school as long as each minute he was late that morning, he'll think about being on time next time. Natural? Definitely not! Does it work? Every time I've seen it used, it sure does! I can guarantee you that your child will do everything in his or her power to get you to back off of your punishment decision. Don't get shaken by this. If your consequence is appropriate but firm, you aren't doing anything wrong. You're teaching your child what is acceptable and unacceptable for now and for later life as well. After all, isn't this a parent's job?

Open your doors to potential buyers

The open house is a time-honored tradition in the real estate industry—Sundays spent perusing homes with little pressure to put down and offer. But there are benefits for the host, including showing your home to many people in a short amount of time and allowing you to meet potential buyers and gauge their perceptions of your property.

Here are a few tips to make your open house a successful one:

•Appearance is everything. Inside and out, your home needs to look its best. Touching up chipped paint and trimming the lawn are a couple of ways to let people know that your home has been well kept. Also vacuum carpets and clean your countertops of excess clutter.

• Creating a comfortable atmosphere. Open all shades, blinds, curtains, etc. and turn on the lights in rooms. This will brighten the interior of your house and make the rooms appear bigger. Baking cookies and setting out potpourri will create a wonderful aroma and help buyers feel more at home.

CLC SPORTS ROUNDUP

CLC hoops teams ready to do battle on hardwood

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Basketball fanatics in search of an early-season fix need to go no further than your friendly College of Lake County confines.

The Lancers men's team has a 1-1 record in the early going, recording its first win of the season in a 96-58 trouncing of UW Rock County.

Highlights for the Lancers included: Wesley Simpson had a double-double with 15 points and 11 steals, Robert Bankhead had 18 points and 5 assists; Tom Woodruff had 11 points and 8 rebounds and Tim Anderson had 6 points and 10 assists.

Second-year coach Shawn Chism has an upbeat feeling about this year.

"We have some good guards and we have some experience," he said. "We're still doing some tinkering with the starting line-up. We would like to get out scores up in the 80-90 point range with an up-tempo, fast-break offense. On defense, we will use the full-court press," Chism said.

CLC hosts is own tournament Nov. 15-16 at the Grayslake campus. Other teams are Harper, Northwestern club team, and Cardinal Stritch JV. Games for CLC are at 8:30 p.m. Nov. 15 and 1 or 3 p.m. Nov. 16.

The CLC roster includes some local talent mixed in with some Chicago players who have been around high level hoops success.

Local fans will remember freshman wing Simpson, 6-foot, 2-inches, who played at Waukegan; Bankhead, a sophomore point guard, also from Waukegan; Bernard Middleton, a 6-1 sophomore from Lake Zurich; Brandon Borror, a 6-4 freshman from Grant; Woodruff, a 6-7 freshman from Ant6ioch. Back from last year is soph Jeff Donohoe, a 6-1 shooting guard from Warren High.

Players from Chicago playing in Grayslake this winter include: Marc Harvey, a 5-11 freshman point from LaSalle; Tim Anderson, a 5-11 sophomore point from Crane; Westinghouse state champ reserves DeAndre Billingsley, 6-0, and Aaron Moore, 6-3. Tieaolo Tears, a 6-8 center, is from Julian and Tim Anderson, a 5-9 point, is a sophomore from Crane High, who has experience in playing in the Red West league of Chicago, "one of the toughest leagues in the country," Chism said.

Borror is the team's top three-point shooter so far.

The Lancers readied for the season by playing in approved jamboree games. Four dates in October were sanctioned for the tournaments. "We were guaranteed three games. It helps us get ready against some tough competition," Chism said. "There is coaching, but 20 minute, running clock halves. We hosted a jamboree and went to Vincennes, Ind., Wright and Illinois Valley."

Chism desires to move the program forward and make CLC a fun place to watch basketball again.

"We have to win our home games. We have changed our schedule and we have 15 of them this year. We hope to steal one or two on the road," Chism said.

Building around steady guard play was the first priority in recruiting. Chism would like to see the high school's prep stars come to junior college ball, but also likes to work with a steady, fundamentally sound key reserve.

Chism's reward is when his players move on to the next level of college hoops. Three such players have done so from his first team as Tyrone Jackson is at Miles College in Alabama, Joe Maitland is at Iowa Wesleyan and Jason Garcia is at Concordia.

CLC's pre-Skyway Conference schedule includes a Dec. 7 home clash with Mid State Tech with a 3 p.m. tip-off, the second round of the CLC-UPS Classic vs. Ancilla at 8 p.m. Dec. 13 and against Waukesha Tech at 3 p.m. Dec. 14 and games at Milwaukee Tech and a Minneapolis, Minn. Tournament.

High hopes for Lady Lancers

Fresh off a strong second half of the season last year, there were a lot of high hopes for the College of Lake County's women's basketball team.

The Lancers reached the .500 mark and played everyone in the conference tough the second round, to the tune of 16-16. But as a certain ex-football coach says, more or less, you can't rest on your laurels, or anything else.

"The problem now is that we just have people competing in multiple sports. Karen Davidson qualified for the nationals in cross-country, and we have several volleyball players whose season just ended last week. The key is just to get everyone together," said Bill Braman, CLC women's head coach.

CLC welcomes freshmen Gina Spears from Round Lake; Erica Brown from Antioch, who can join the team in January; Kristin Piasecki, from Grayslake; Luba Brennan from Wauconda and Jen Malueg of Round Lake. Sophomores back include Davidson and Becky Holem from Grant and Antioch's Amy Mueller.

"We will have quickness and speed. We do not have much height, but we will have to hustle, hustle and hustle," Braman said.

Holem led the conference in rebounding last year and will again be asked to provide solid numbers.

Braman said one of the things that he likes best about this year's team is that it has depth. "We have come a long ways from when we had six or seven players. This year, we have some depth," Braman said.

Braman is in his seventh year at CLC, after stints at Lake Forest High School and Trinity. Roger Peterson is his assistant coach.

The Lancers have a challenging schedule. They open with College of DuPage, the Division III NJCAA champs. Then there is a series of five away games before a Dec. 7 clash with Mid-State Technical. Skyway Conference play begins Jan. 9 against Oakton in Grayslake.

News and notes

A fast start to the 2002-2003 College of Lake County men's basketball campaign and an exciting new style of play has already started to intrigue the student and faculty population only three games into the season.

"Looking around at our two games so far I was pleased that we had a lot more fans than last year," said head coach Shawn Chism. "We opened up the bleachers on both sides and on the ends also."

In order to further promote school spirit, the athletic department, along with the student activities department have joined together to promote Family Night Fri., Nov. 15 at home.

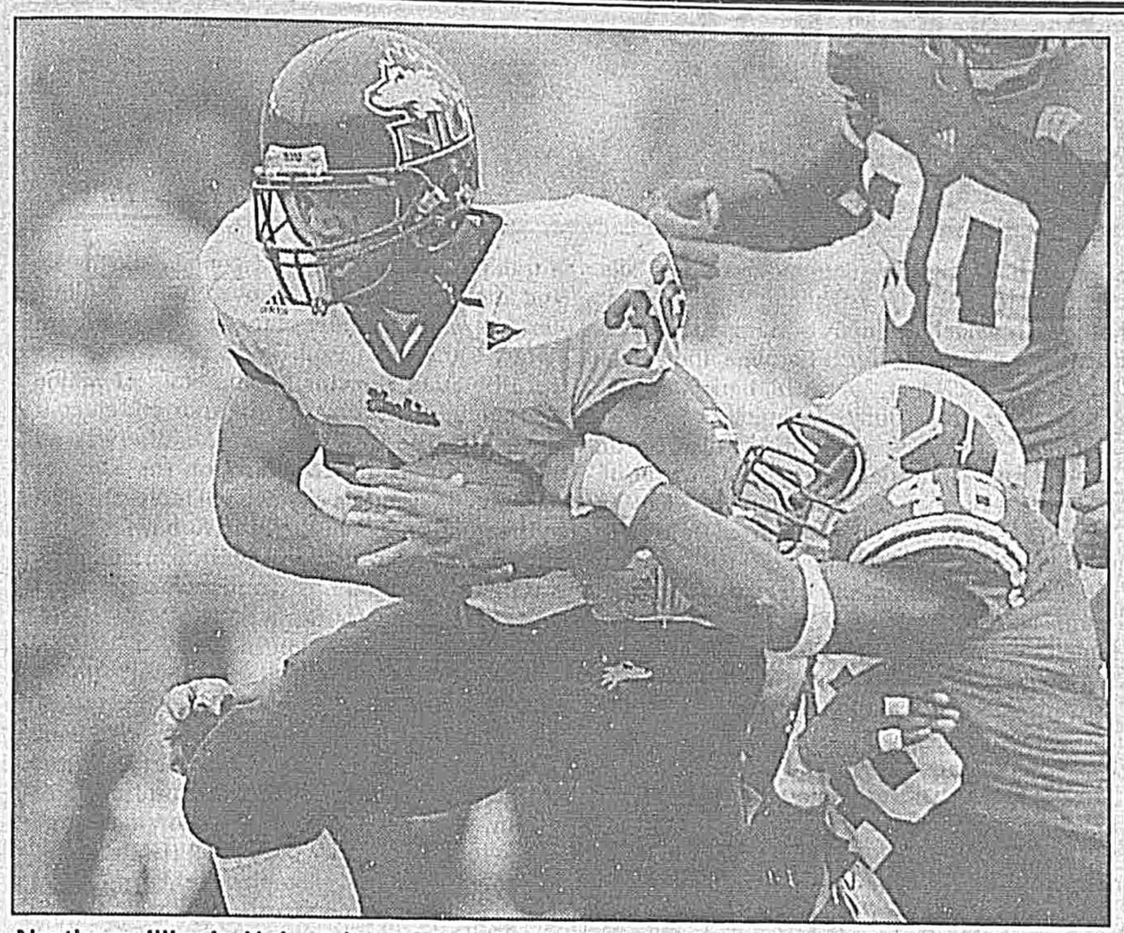

That's when the Lancers will play the second game of the Lancer Shoot-out. Tip-off is slated for 8:30 p.m. against the Northwestern University club team. Cardinal Stritch plays Harper College in the first game at 6:30. "We're essentially trying to promote school spirit through the basketball team by trying to get people out to the games," said Director of Student Activities Felecia Ganther. "We'll have giveaways and other things for people attending the game."

Athlete of the Week

Men's basketball

Robert Bankhead was named the Athlete of the Week. The Lancer men's basketball player averaged 23 points per in CLC's first three games. Bankhead also hit 5-of-6 crucial free-throws in a victory over Prairie State.

Bowling is in the cards for Turner, Husky football

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The wild celebration, complete with cannons fired and bands and players coming together, was understandable.

While the streak-breaking 26-17 Northern Illinois University win over Bowling Green State gave the Huskies a 6-0 Mid-American Conference mark and fostered thoughts of a bowl bid, the players are trying to act as though they have been there before.

Leading the way is standout running back Michael Turner, a North Chicago High School graduate. NIU gave Turner the awesome task of replacing Thomas Hammock, a running back sidelined for the year with a heart condition. The rushing attack is Turner's chance to shine since.

"It is great to have him in the backfield. It really makes things a lot easier for the passing game, because we can get one-on-one downfield," said Josh Haldi, NIU's quarterback. "He is so quiet and humble, though. After a big run, he just comes back into the huddle. We all know that we have a lot of football to be played—we can't let down next week (Nov. 16) at Eastern Michigan," Haldi said.

Turner's play was limited to no kickoff returns, but the former Warhawk added 192 yards in 40 carries, with a long of 28. He continued to add to his impressive football information that already had the bed sheets of "Turner for Heisman" bellowing in the large crowd. Turner came into the game ranked No. 2 behind Chris Brown of Colorado with 1,285 yards, 5.4 yards per carry and 142.8 per game in 236 chances. He is fourth in all-purpose yards in the NCAA, at 182.2 per game, and in the top 20 in scoring, 9.3. He topped Stacey Robinson as the NIU leader for the single-season rushing.

Turner has a way of helping teams, well, turn the corner.

"They (NIU) was the only school who recruited me, but I could see that they were making improvements," Turner said earlier.

Haldi had one of his best passing days, with 10-for-16 with for 145-yard passing day, diving up the catches to five different receivers. Steve Azar booted four field goals, and all were needed in the Falcons' second-half charge. Dan Sheldon and Shatone Powers caught TD passes as NIU built up a 17-0 lead, sending the crowd of 25,822 into frenzy.

"Having two weeks to prepare really helped us. It is a great win, but we have a goal, the same goal that we have had in the last six years that we have been here, to win a MAC championship. This win is a testament to that focus," said head coach Joe Novak.

"We want to be thought of as one of the elite teams in the MAC," Turner said.

Turner turned back any pain suffered from an ankle injury that limited his duties against Western Michigan (a 24-20 NIU win). He said after the BGSU game that he was fine.

"Mike had a great game," Novak said.

The NIU defense did more than its share in stopping QB Josh Harris and a Falcon team that had scored 370 points before coming to DeKalb. Top games were turned in by linebacker Mike Duffy, with 10 tackles and one for loss, Javan Lee with 2 tackles and two for loss and Larry Williams, 9 tackles, and Travis Moore, seven.

Names to be aware of when Toledo visits DeKalb at 11:35 a.m. Nov. 23. And maybe, just maybe, another 100-yard game for the man the call the "The Burner" from North Chicago, when NIU is 8-2 in such games.

Girardi likes the Windy City

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The hot stove league may just be getting warmed up.

With the now World Series history, about the only news baseball makes in November is managerial comings...and goings.

Joe Girardi made an appearance in Wadsworth, telling an audience that he would like to return for his fourth year as a Chicago Cub.

"I want to come back, but I haven't talked to them," Girardi said.

"Them" in this case would be Cubs management, which at the time of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce function, was trying to woo the Giants' Dusty Baker as its next manager.

"We as players were very disappointed in last season. It was embarrassing," Girardi, a 12-year major leaguer, said.

Girardi discussed his experiences winning World Series rings with the New York Yankees. The Peoria native graduated from Northwestern University. He is 38 years old.

Girardi praised what it has been like playing at Wrigley Field this year.

Also on the program was John McDonough, the Cubs vice president in charge of marketing.

"The ticket prices are a concern to us. We are still the best value in major league sports. You can still see a game from $10-$12," he said.

McDonough gave Girardi kudos for his career, which stared in 1986 when the Cubs drafted him. "Of all the players, I think that Joe is the most respected. If he wants to aspire to be a manager, he can be," he said.

Girardi has 1,000 hits to his career, an achievement that he gained in 2001. He was the catcher for David Cone's perfect game against Montreal and a no-hitter by Dwight Gooden in 1996 vs. Seattle. He played in the 1996, 1998 and 1999 World Series with the Yankees, all champions for the Bronx Bombers.

Girardi likes the Windy City

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The hot stove league may just be getting warmed up.

With the now World Series history, about the only news baseball makes in November is managerial comings…and goings.

Joe Girardi made an appearance in Wadsworth, telling an audience that he would like to return for his fourth year as a Chicago Cub.

"I want to come back, but I haven't talked to them," Girardi said.

"Them" in this case would be Cubs management, which at the time of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce function, was trying to woo the Giants' Dusty Baker as its next manager.

"We as players were very disappointed in last season. It was embarrassing," Girardi, a 12-year major leaguer, said.

Girardi discussed his experiences winning World Series rings with the New York Yankees. The Peoria native graduated from Northwestern University. He is 38 years old.

Girardi praised what it has been like playing at Wrigley Field this year.

Also on the program was John McDonough, the Cubs vice president in charge of marketing.

"The ticket prices are a concern to us. We are still the best value in major league sports. You can still see a game from $10-$12," he said.

McDonough gave Girardi kudos for his career, which stared in 1986 when the Cubs drafted him. "Of all the players, I think that Joe is the most respected. If he wants to aspire to be a manager, he can be," he said.

Girardi has 1,000 hits to his career, an achievement that he gained in 2001. He was the catcher for David Cone's perfect game against Montreal and a no-hitter by Dwight Gooden in 1996 vs. Seattle. He played in the 1996, 1998 and 1999 World Series with the Yankees, all champions for the Bronx Bombers.

High hopes for Lady Lancers

Fresh off a strong second half of the season last year, there were a lot of high hopes for the College of Lake County's women's basketball team.

The Lancers reached the .500 mark and played everyone in the conference tough the second round, to the tune of 16-16. But as a certain ex-football coach says, more or less, you can't rest on your laurels, or anything else.

"The problem now is that we just have people competing in multiple sports. Karen Davidson qualified for the nationals in cross-country, and we have several volleyball players whose season just ended last week. The key is just to get everyone together," said Bill Braman, CLC women's head coach.

CLC welcomes freshmen Gina Spears from Round Lake; Erica Brown from Antioch, who can join the team in January; Kristin Piasecki, from Grayslake; Luba Brennan from Wauconda and Jen Malueg of Round Lake. Sophomores back include Davidson and Becky Holem from Grant and Antioch's Amy Mueller.

"We will have quickness and speed. We do not have much height, but we will have to hustle, hustle and hustle," Braman said.

Holem led the conference in rebounding last year and will again be asked to provide solid numbers.

Braman said one of the things that he likes best about this year's team is that it has depth. "We have come a long ways from when we had six or seven players. This year, we have some depth," Braman said.

Braman is in his seventh year at CLC, after stints at Lake Forest High School and Trinity. Roger Peterson is his assistant coach.

The Lancers have a challenging schedule. They open with College of DuPage, the Division III NJCAA champs. Then there is a series of five away games before a Dec. 7 clash with Mid-State Technical. Skyway Conference play begins Jan. 9 against Oakton in Grayslake.

News and notes

A fast start to the 2002-2003 College of Lake County men's basketball campaign and an exciting new style of play has already started to intrigue the student and faculty population only three games into the season.

"Looking around at our two games so far I was pleased that we had a lot more fans than last year," said head coach Shawn Chism. "We opened up the bleachers on both sides and on the ends also."

In order to further promote school spirit, the athletic department, along with the student activities department have joined together to promote Family Night Fri., Nov. 15 at home.

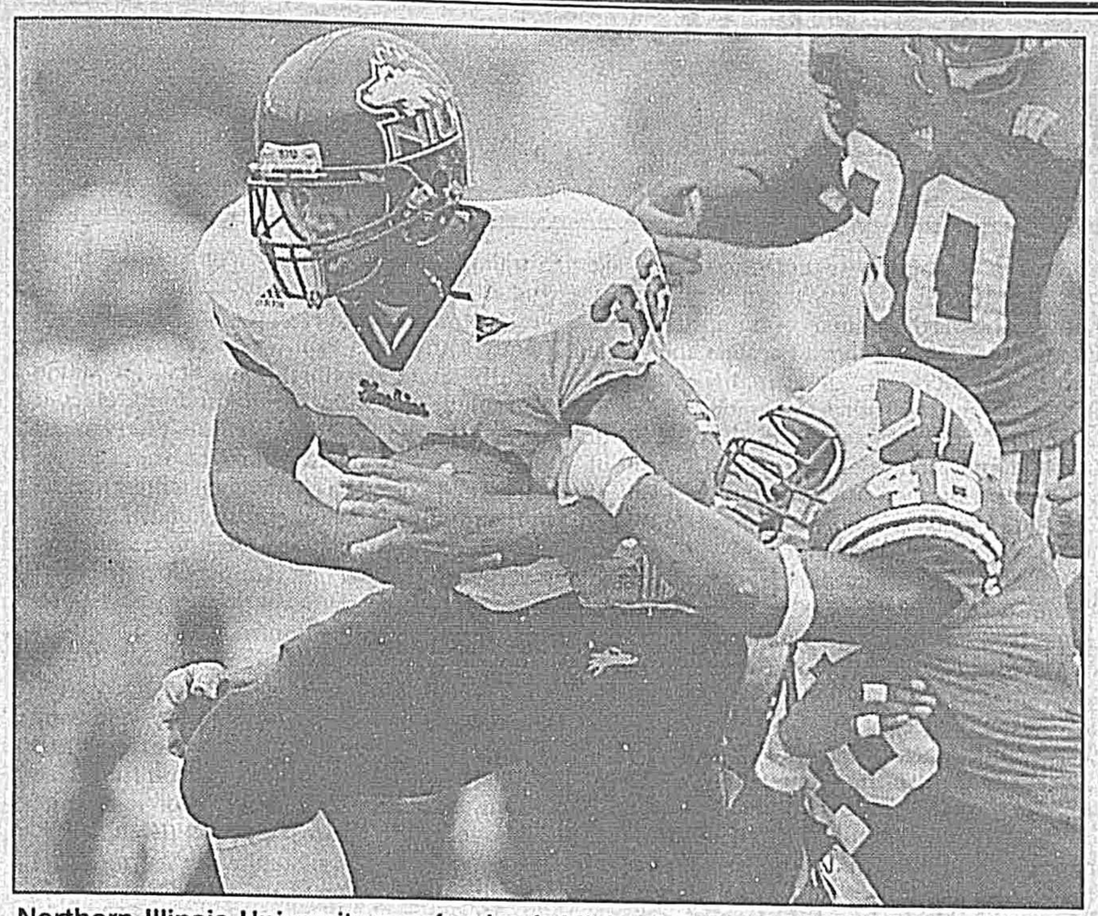

That's when the Lancers will play the second game of the Lancer Shoot-out. Tip-off is slated for 8:30 p.m. against the Northwestern University club team. Cardinal Stritch plays Harper College in the first game at 6:30. "We're essentially trying to promote school spirit through the basketball team by trying to get people out to the games," said Director of Student Activities Felecia Ganther. "We'll have giveaways and other things for people attending the game."

Athlete of the Week

Men's basketball

Robert Bankhead was named the Athlete of the Week. The Lancer men's basketball player averaged 23 points per in CLC's first three games. Bankhead also hit 5-of-6 crucial free-throws in a victory over Prairie State.

Bowling is in the cards for Turner, Husky football

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The wild celebration, complete with cannons fired and bands and players coming together, was understandable.

While the streak-breaking 26-17 Northern Illinois University win over Bowling Green State gave the Huskies a 6-0 Mid-American Conference mark and fostered thoughts of a bowl bid, the players are trying to act as though they have been there before.

Leading the way is standout running back Michael Turner, a North Chicago High School graduate. NIU gave Turner the awesome task of replacing Thomas Hammock, a running back sidelined for the year with a heart condition. The rushing attack is Turner's chance to shine since.

"It is great to have him in the backfield. It really makes things a lot easier for the passing game, because we can get one-on-one downfield," said Josh Haldi, NIU's quarterback. "He is so quiet and humble, though. After a big run, he just comes back into the huddle. We all know that we have a lot of football to be played—we can't let down next week (Nov. 16) at Eastern Michigan," Haldi said.

Turner's play was limited to no kickoff returns, but the former Warhawk added 192 yards in 40 carries, with a long of 28. He continued to add to his impressive football information that already had the bed sheets of "Turner for Heisman" bellowing in the large crowd. Turner came into the game ranked No. 2 behind Chris Brown of Colorado with 1,285 yards, 5.4 yards per carry and 142.8 per game in 236 chances. He is fourth in all-purpose yards in the NCAA, at 182.2 per game, and in the top 20 in scoring, 9.3. He topped Stacey Robinson as the NIU leader for the single-season rushing.

Turner has a way of helping teams, well, turn the corner.

"They (NIU) was the only school who recruited me, but I could see that they were making improvements," Turner said earlier.

Haldi had one of his best passing days, with 10-for-16 with for 145-yard passing day, diving up the catches to five different receivers. Steve Azar booted four field goals, and all were needed in the Falcons' second-half charge. Dan Sheldon and Shatone Powers caught TD passes as NIU built up a 17-0 lead, sending the crowd of 25,822 into frenzy.

"Having two weeks to prepare really helped us. It is a great win, but we have a goal, the same goal that we have had in the last six years that we have been here, to win a MAC championship. This win is a testament to that focus," said head coach Joe Novak.

"We want to be thought of as one of the elite teams in the MAC," Turner said.

Turner turned back any pain suffered from an ankle injury that limited his duties against Western Michigan (a 24-20 NIU win). He said after the BGSU game that he was fine.

"Mike had a great game," Novak said.

The NIU defense did more than its share in stopping QB Josh Harris and a Falcon team that had scored 370 points before coming to DeKalb. Top games were turned in by linebacker Mike Duffy, with 10 tackles and one for loss, Javan Lee with 2 tackles and two for loss and Larry Williams, 9 tackles, and Travis Moore, seven.

Names to be aware of when Toledo visits DeKalb at 11:35 a.m. Nov. 23. And maybe, just maybe, another 100-yard game for the man the call the "The Burner" from North Chicago, when NIU is 8-2 in such games.

Girardi likes the Windy City

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The hot stove league may just be getting warmed up.

With the now World Series history, about the only news baseball makes in November is managerial comings...and goings.

Joe Girardi made an appearance in Wadsworth, telling an audience that he would like to return for his fourth year as a Chicago Cub.

"I want to come back, but I haven't talked to them," Girardi said.

"Them" in this case would be Cubs management, which at the time of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce function, was trying to woo the Giants' Dusty Baker as its next manager.

"We as players were very disappointed in last season. It was embarrassing," Girardi, a 12-year major leaguer, said.

Girardi discussed his experiences winning World Series rings with the New York Yankees. The Peoria native graduated from Northwestern University. He is 38 years old.

Girardi praised what it has been like playing at Wrigley Field this year.

Also on the program was John McDonough, the Cubs vice president in charge of marketing.

"The ticket prices are a concern to us. We are still the best value in major league sports. You can still see a game from $10-$12," he said.

McDonough gave Girardi kudos for his career, which stared in 1986 when the Cubs drafted him. "Of all the players, I think that Joe is the most respected. If he wants to aspire to be a manager, he can be," he said.

Girardi has 1,000 hits to his career, an achievement that he gained in 2001. He was the catcher for David Cone's perfect game against Montreal and a no-hitter by Dwight Gooden in 1996 vs. Seattle. He played in the 1996, 1998 and 1999 World Series with the Yankees, all champions for the Bronx Bombers.

ATTENTION PET OWNERS
We Do Not Knowingly Accept Ads For Free/Giveaway Animals
If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Know What Managers Expect

By Scott T. Fleischmann

In the past several years, layoffs have been rampant. I have spoken to many who have been the recipients of those layoff notices. Most have the same first challenge. Get a resume updated as soon as possible.

But that rush can be avoided by keeping one's resume updated. None of us can predict when we will be the victims of a downsizing. Some think that just the poor performers are dismissed during tough times. Although performance issues are often considered, that is not the only issue. In fact, it may not be the most important issue.

Companies that need to cut short-term costs may decide to cut those who are making the most money in specific job classifications. Some may go to a different management structure, cut middle managers, and build self-directed business units. There are infinite philosophies on how to make those decisions. Regardless of how secure we feel, we need to be ready for the worst.

Building a resume from scratch after numerous years in a job is difficult. Keeping it current is a relatively easy process. Here are the steps.

Schedule the Time
Establish a schedule for a resume check on a periodic basis. Early in one's career, this will be relatively frequent. Someone who is in his or her first job should probably schedule an update every 12 to 18 months because new experiences are plentiful. Less frequent updates are needed in later career stages.

Update Goals, Experience, and Education
Verify that the goals identified are the same as when the resume was written. Add the experience that has been gained since the last update, focusing on the accomplishments of the tasks that have been assigned. Add relevant classes, seminars and coursework to the education section. Those who are working toward a degree or certification should specify that decision.

Proofread, Edit and Re-edit
Finalize the resume. The stored copy should be ready to publish. Every "i" must be dotted and every "t" crossed. Use the spell checker and the grammar checker on the word processor for the first edit. Then read and edit it at least ten times. Have others proofread it for you. Then re-edit it and use the automated tools again.

Update the Reference Sheet
Add the names of those who can best describe the skills that have been demonstrated since the last update. Those who are starting a job search will need to contact them for then normal pre-search discussion, but those who are just doing the update can postpone that step until the search is started. Remove the names of those who are no longer familiar with current skills, experience and performance.

This process will assure that an updated resume is available if it is needed. We all want to believe that we will make the decision when to search for a new job. Unfortunately, that may not be true.

Pet OF THE WEEK

DIETER

Hello,
My name is Dieter and I'm an American Eskimo and Shiba Inv mix. I'm very smart, but I'm still teething and kind of nippy! I love playing with my cat cousins Weegie and Gizmo, but my family yells when I put their heads in my mouth! Cat fur tastes like chocolate to me.

FANTASY FOOTBALL MONTHLY

(Touchdowns Only!!!)

WE HAVE A WINNER

October's version of Lakeland Newspapers' Fantasy Football Monthly was as close as you could get. Two readers had compiled teams that led to 31 touchdowns in the month of October.

The final score, in overtime via the tie-breaker, was 37-35 with Mike Sheren of Antioch coming out the winner. Sheren defeated Chuck Doty of Spring Grove as Sheren's Duece McAllister scored 6 touchdowns, compared to the 4 scores by Doty's Tom Brady.

Ironically, both readers had the same lineup scoring the 31 touchdowns. They were: Jeff Garcia/Aaron Brooks (19), LaDamian Tomlinson/Edg. James (5), Terrell Owens/Eric Moulds (7).

The best team possible in October would have been: Jeff Garcia (9), Aaron Brooks (10), Marshall Faulk or Ahman Green (5), Corey Dillon (4), Terrell Owens (5), and Marty Booker (3).

Mind you that a good October does not guarantee a good December. And your December picks are due by Nov. 30th (November's contest closed on Halloween). Keep bye-weeks and injuries in mind.

Congratulations again to Mike and a check for $100 is on its way to the Sheren residence.

Monthly Winner Receives $100
